The honorable Lafayette S. Foster, President of the Senate pro tempore, resumed the chair.

The President pro tempore presented the credentials of the honorable Luke P. Poland, elected a senator by the legislature of the State of Vermont to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of the honorable Jacob Collamer.

The credentials were read, and the oaths prescribed by law were administered to Mr. Poland, and he took his seat in the Senate.

The President pro tempore presented the credentials of the honorable George F. Edmunds, elected a senator by the legislature of the State of Vermont to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of the honorable Solomon Foot.

The credentials were read, and the oaths prescribed by law were administered to Mr. Edmunds, and he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Fessenden presented the credentials of the honorable Alexander G. Cattell, elected a senator by the legislature of the State of New Jersey for the unexpired term commencing on the 4th day of March, 1865.

The credentials were read, and the oaths prescribed by law were administered to Mr. Cattell, and he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Fessenden presented the credentials of the honorable Frederick T. Frelinghuysen, appointed a senator by the governor of the State of New Jersey to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of the honorable William Wright.

The credentials were read, and the oaths prescribed by law were administered to Mr. Frelinghuysen, and he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Cragin presented the credentials of the honorable George G. Fogg, appointed a senator by the governor of the State of New Hampshire to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of the honorable Daniel Clark.

The credentials were read, and the oaths prescribed by law were administered to Mr. Fogg, and he took his seat in the Senate.

Mr. Johnson presented the credentials of the honorable O. M. Roberts, elected a senator by the legislature of the State of Texas for the unexpired term commencing on the 4th day of March, 1863.

Ordered, That they lie on the table.

Mr. Johnson presented the credentials of the honorable David G. Burnett, elected a senator by the legislature of the State of Texas for the unexpired term commencing on the 4th day of March, 1865.

Ordered, That they lie on the table.

On motion by Mr. Anthony,

Ordered, That the Secretary inform the House of Representatives that a quorum of the Senate has assembled, and that the Senate is ready to proceed to business.

On motion by Mr. Anthony,

Ordered, That the hour of the daily meeting of the Senate be twelve o'clock meridian until otherwise ordered.

Mr. Anthony submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That a committee, consisting of two members, be appointed to join such committee as may be appointed by the House of Representatives to wait upon the President of the United States and inform him that a quorum of each house has assembled, and that Congress is ready to receive any communication he may be pleased to make.

Ordered, That the committee be appointed by the President pro tempore; and The President pro tempore appointed Mr. Anthony and Mr. Nesmith.

A motion was made by Mr. Sumner that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill (S. 1) to regulate the elective franchise in the District of Columbia.

A question of order was raised by Mr. McDougall, to wit: Was the motion in order under the 21st joint rule of the two houses; and

The President pro tempore decided that the motion under the 21st joint rule, as settled by a former decision of the Senate in a similar case, was not in order.

Mr. Sherman asked, and by unanimous consent obtained, leave to bring in a bill (S. 452) to prevent and punish the illegal appointment of officers of the United States; which was read the first and second times by unanimous consent.

Ordered, That it lie on the table.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. McPherson, its Clerk:

Mr. President: I am directed by the House of Representatives to inform the Senate that a quorum of the House has assembled, and that the House is ready to proceed to business.

It has passed a resolution for the appointment of a committee on its part, to join such committee as may be appointed by the Senate, to wait upon the President of the United States and inform him that a quorum of each house has assembled, and that Congress is ready to receive any communication he may be pleased to make; and it has appointed Mr. E. B. Washburne, Mr. Morrill, and Mr. Finck the committee on its part.

Mr. Chandler submitted the following resolution for consideration:

Resolved, That the President be requested to communicate to this house, if in his opinion not inconsistent with the public interest, any correspondence or other information in his possession in regard to the following points:

1st. Whether the French Emperor has complied with his announcement towards the United States to withdraw one-third of the French troops in Mexico during the month of November last.

2d. Whether any number of said French troops has been withdrawn in accordance with that announcement.

3d. Whether if, as it appears, no troops have been withdrawn, the French Emperor has offered any explanation or apology for his course, or whether he has proposed a different understanding by which the withdrawal will be delayed.

4th. What action, if any, the government has taken to see that understanding carried out.

Mr. Williams asked, and by unanimous consent obtained, leave to bring in a bill (S. 453) to regulate the tenure of offices; which was read the first and second times by unanimous consent.

Ordered, That it lie on the table and be printed.

Mr. Pomeroy submitted the following resolution; which was read and passed to a second reading:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be, and he is hereby, directed to pay, out of the compensation fund of the Senate, to Mrs. Lane, widow of the honorable James H. Lane, deceased, late a senator from the State of Kansas, the amount of compensation due the deceased at the time of his death.

Mr. Lane submitted the following resolution for consideration:

Resolved, That the Committee on Printing be directed to inquire into the expediency of providing by law for the election of the Superintendent of Public

Printing by a concurrent vote of both houses of Congress, and to report by bill or otherwise.

On motion by Mr. Trumbull,

The Senate took a recess until one o'clock and fifteen minutes.

After which,

Mr. Anthony, from the joint committee appointed to wait upon the President of the United States and inform him that a quorum of each house has assembled, and that Congress is ready to receive any communication he may be pleased to make, reported that the committee had performed the duty assigned them, and that they had been instructed by the President to say that he would immediately make communication to each house in writing.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. McPherson, its Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives has passed a bill (H. R. 828) to repeal section 13 of "An act to suppress insurrection, to punish treason and rebellion, to seize and confiscate the property of rebels, and for other purposes," approved July 17, 1862; in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate.

The following message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Johnson, his secretary:

Fellow-citizens of the Senate and House of Representatives:

After a brief interval the Congress of the United States resumes its annual legislative labors. An all-wise and merciful Providence has abated the pestilence which visited our shores, leaving its calamitous traces upon some portions of our country. Peace, order, tranquillity, and civil authority have been formally declared to exist throughout the whole of the United States. In all of the States civil authority has superseded the coercion of arms, and the people, by their voluntary action, are maintaining their governments in full activity and complete operation. The enforcement of the laws is no longer "obstructed in any State by combinations too powerful to be suppressed by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings;" and the animosities engendered by the war are rapidly yielding to the beneficent influences of our free institutions, and to the kindly effects of unrestricted social and commercial intercourse. An entire restoration of fraternal feeling must be the earnest wish of every patriotic heart; and we will have accomplished our grandest national achievement when, forgetting the sad events of the past, and remembering only their instructive lessons, we resume our onward career as a free, prosperous, and united people.

In my message of the 4th of December, 1865, Congress was informed of the measures which had been instituted by the Executive with a view to the gradual restoration of the States in which the insurrection occurred to their relations with the general government. Provisional governors had been appointed, conventions called, governors elected, legislatures assembled, and senators and representatives chosen to the Congress of the United States. Courts had been opened for the enforcement of laws long in abeyance. The blockade had been removed, custom-houses re-established, and the internal revenue laws put in force, in order that the people might contribute to the national income. Postal operations had been renewed, and efforts were being made to restore them to their former condition of efficiency. The States themselves had been asked to take part in the high function of amending the Constitution, and of thus sanctioning the extinction of African slavery as one of the legitimate results of our internecine struggle.

Having progressed thus far, the Executive department found that it had accomplished nearly all that was within the scope of its constitutional authority. One thing, however, yet remained to be done before the work of restoration could be completed, and that was the admission to Congress of loyal senators and representatives from the States whose people had rebelled against the lawful authority of the general government. This question devolved upon the respective houses, which, by the Constitution, are made the judges of the elections, returns, and qualifications of their own members; and its consideration at once engaged the attention of Congress.

In the mean time the Executive department—no other plan having been proposed by Congress—continued its efforts to perfect, as far as was practicable, the restoration of the proper relations between the citizens of the respective States, the States, and the federal government, extending, from time to time, as the public interests seemed to require, the judicial, revenue, and postal systems of the country. With the advice and consent of the Senate, the necessary officers were appointed, and appropriations made by Congress for the payment of their salaries. The proposition to amend the federal Constitution, so as to prevent the existence of slavery within the United States or any place subject to their jurisdiction, was ratified by the requisite number of States; and on the 18th day of December, 1865, it was officially declared to have become valid as a part of the Constitution of the United States. All of the States in which the insurrection had existed promptly amended their constitutions, so as to make them conform to the great change thus effected in the organic law of the land; declared null and void all ordinances and laws of secession; repudiated all pretended debts and obligations created for the revolutionary purposes of the insurrection; and proceeded, in good faith, to the enactment of measures for the protection and amelioration of the condition of the colored race. Congress, however, yet hesitated to admit any of these States to representation; and it was not until towards the close of the eighth month of the session that an exception was made in favor of Tennessee, by the admission of her senators and representatives.

I deem it a subject of profound regret that Congress has thus far failed to admit to seats loyal senators and representatives from the other States, whose inhabitants, with those of Tennessee, had engaged in the rebellion. Ten States—more than one-fourth of the whole number—remain without representation; the seats of fifty members in the House of Representatives and of twenty members in the Senate are yet vacant—not by their own consent, not by a failure of election, but by the refusal of Congress to accept their credentials. Their admission, it is believed, would have accomplished much towards the renewal and strengthening of our relations as one people, and removed serious cause for discontent on the part of the inhabitants of those States. It would have accorded with the great principle enunciated in the declaration of American independence, that no people ought to bear the burden of taxation, and yet be denied the right of representation. It would have been in consonance with the express provisions of the Constitution, that “each State shall have at least one Representative,” and “that no State, without its consent, shall be deprived of its equal suffrage in the Senate.” These provisions were intended to secure to every State, and to the people of every State, the right of representation in each house of Congress; and so important was it deemed by the framers of the Constitution that the equality of the States in the Senate should be preserved, that not even by an amendment of the Constitution can any State, without its consent, be denied a voice in that branch of the national legislature.

It is true, it has been assumed that the existence of the States was terminated by the rebellious acts of their inhabitants, and that the insurrection having been suppressed, they were thenceforward to be considered merely as conquered territories. The legislative, executive, and judicial departments of the government have, however, with great distinctness and uniform consistency, refused to sanction an assumption so incompatible with the nature of our republican system and with the professed objects of the war. Throughout the recent legislation of Congress the undeniable fact makes itself apparent, that these ten political communities are nothing less than States of this Union. At the very commencement of the rebellion each house declared, with a unanimity as remarkable as it was significant, that the war was not “waged, upon our part, in any spirit of oppression, nor for any purpose of conquest or subjugation, nor purpose of overthrowing or interfering with the rights or established institutions of those States, but to defend and maintain the supremacy of the Constitution and all laws made in pursuance thereof, and to preserve the Union, with all the dignity, equality, and rights of the several States unimpaired; and that as soon as these objects" were "accomplished the war ought to cease." In some instances senators were permitted to continue their legislative functions, while in other instances representatives were elected and admitted to seats after their States had formally declared their right to withdraw from the Union, and were endeavoring to maintain that right by force of arms. All of the States whose people were in insurrection, as States, were included in the apportionment of the direct tax of twenty millions of dollars annually laid upon the United States by the act approved 5th August, 1861. Congress, by the act of March 4, 1862, and by the apportionment of representation thereunder, also recognized their presence as States in the Union; and they have, for judicial purposes, been divided into districts, as States alone can be divided. The same recognition appears in the recent legislation in reference to Tennessee, which evidently rests upon the fact that the functions of the State were not destroyed by the rebellion, but merely suspended; and that principle, is of course, applicable to those States which, like Tennessee, attempted to renounce their places in the Union.

The action of the Executive department of the government upon this subject has been equally definite and uniform, and the purpose of the war was specifically stated in the proclamation issued by my predecessor on the 22d day of September, 1862. It was then solemnly proclaimed and declared that "hereafter, as heretofore, the war will be prosecuted for the object of practically restoring the constitutional relation between the United States and each of the States and the people thereof, in which States that relation is or may be suspended or disturbed."

The recognition of the States by the judicial department of the government has also been clear and conclusive in all proceedings affecting them as States, had in the Supreme, circuit, and district courts.

In the admission of senators and representatives from any and all of the States there can be no just ground of apprehension that persons who are disloyal will be clothed with the powers of legislation, for this could not happen when the Constitution and the laws are enforced by a vigilant and faithful Congress. Each house is made the "judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own members," and may, "with the concurrence of two-thirds, expel a member." When a senator or representative presents his certificate of election, he may at once be admitted or rejected; or, should there be any question as to his eligibility, his credentials may be referred for investigation to the appropriate committee. If admitted to a seat, it must be upon evidence satisfactory to the house of which he thus becomes a member that he possesses the requisite constitutional and legal qualifications. If refused admission as a member for want of due allegiance to the government, and returned to his constituents, they are admonished that none but persons loyal to the United States will be allowed a voice in the legislative councils of the nation, and the political power and moral influence of Congress are thus effectively exerted in the interests of loyalty to the government and fidelity to the Union. Upon this question, so vitally affecting the restoration of the Union and the permanency of our present form of government, my convictions, heretofore expressed, have undergone no change; but, on the contrary, their correctness has been confirmed by reflection and time. If the admission of loyal members to seats in the respective houses of Congress was wise and expedient a year ago, it is no less wise and expedient now. If this anomalous condition is right now—if, in the exact condition of these States at the present time, it is lawful to exclude them from representation—I do not see that the question will be changed by the efflux of time. Ten years hence, if these States remain as they are, the right of representation will be no stronger—the right of exclusion will be no weaker.

The Constitution of the United States makes it the duty of the President to recommend to the consideration of Congress “such measures as he shall judge necessary or expedient.” I know of no measure more imperatively demanded by every consideration of national interest, sound policy, and equal justice than the admission of loyal members from the now unrepresented States. This would consummate the work of restoration, and exert a most salutary influence in the re-establishment of peace, harmony, and fraternal feeling. It would tend greatly to renew the confidence of the American people in the vigor and stability of their institutions. It would bind us more closely together as a nation, and enable us to show to the world the inherent and recuperative power of a government founded upon the will of the people, and established upon the principles of liberty, justice, and intelligence. Our increased strength and enhanced prosperity would irrefragably demonstrate the fallacy of the arguments against free institutions drawn from our recent national disorders by the enemies of republican government. The admission of loyal members from the States now excluded from Congress, by allaying doubt and apprehension, would turn capital, now awaiting an opportunity for investment, into the channels of trade and industry. It would alleviate the present troubled condition of those States, and, by inducing emigration, aid in the settlement of fertile regions now uncultivated, and lead to an increased production of those staples which have added so greatly to the wealth of the nation and commerce of the world. New fields of enterprise would be opened to our progressive people, and soon the devastations of war would be repaired, and all traces of our domestic differences effaced from the minds of our countrymen.

In our efforts to preserve “the unity of government which constitutes us one people,” by restoring the States to the condition which they held prior to the rebellion, we should be cautious, lest, having rescued our nation from perils of threatened disintegration, we resort to consolidation, and in the end absolute despotism, as a remedy for the recurrence of similar troubles. The war having terminated, and with it all occasion for the exercise of powers of doubtful constitutionality, we should hasten to bring legislation within the boundaries prescribed by the Constitution, and to return to the ancient landmarks established by our fathers for the guidance of succeeding generations. “The Constitution which at any time exists, until changed by an explicit and authentic act of the whole people, is sacredly obligatory upon all.” “If, in the opinion of the people, the distribution or modification of the constitutional powers be, in any particular, wrong, let it be corrected by an amendment in the way in which the Constitution designates. But let there be no change by usurpation; for” “it is the customary weapon by which free governments are destroyed.” Washington spoke these words to his countrymen, when, followed by their love and gratitude, he voluntarily retired from the cares of public life. “To keep in all things within the pale of our constitutional powers, and cherish the federal Union as the only rock of safety,” were prescribed by Jefferson as rules of action to endear to his “countrymen the true principles of their Constitution, and promote a union of sentiment and action equally auspicious to their happiness and safety.” Jackson held that the action of the general government should always be strictly confined to the sphere of its appropriate duties, and justly and forcibly urged that our government is not to be maintained nor our Union preserved “by invasions of the rights and powers of the several States. In thus attempting to make our general government strong, we make it weak. Its true strength consists in leaving individuals and States as much as possible to themselves; in making itself felt, not in its power, but in its beneficence; not in its control, but in its protection; not in binding the States more closely to the centre, but leaving each to move unobstructed in its proper constitutional orbit." These are the teachings of men whose deeds and services have made them illustrious, and who, long since withdrawn from the scenes of life, have left to their country the rich legacy of their example, their wisdom, and their patriotism. Drawing fresh inspiration from their lessons, let us emulate them in love of country and respect for the Constitution and the laws.

The report of the Secretary of the Treasury affords much information respecting the revenue and commerce of the country. His views upon the currency, and with reference to a proper adjustment of our revenue system, internal as well as impost, are commended to the careful consideration of Congress. In my last annual message I expressed my general views upon these subjects. I need now only call attention to the necessity of carrying into every department of the government a system of rigid accountability, thorough retrenchment, and wise economy. With no exceptional nor unusual expenditures, the oppressive burdens of taxation can be lessened by such a modification of our revenue laws as will be consistent with the public faith and the legitimate and necessary wants of the government.

The report presents a much more satisfactory condition of our finances than one year ago the most sanguine could have anticipated. During the fiscal year ending the 30th June, 1865, the last year of the war, the public debt was increased $941,902,537, and on the 31st of October, 1865, it amounted to $2,740,854,750. On the 31st day of October, 1866, it had been reduced to $2,551,310,006, the diminution, during a period of fourteen months, commencing September 1, 1865, and ending October 31, 1866, having been $206,379,565. In the last annual report on the state of the finances it was estimated that during the three quarters of the fiscal year ending the 30th of June last, the debt would be increased $112,194,947. During that period, however, it was reduced $31,196,387, the receipts of the year having been $89,905,905 more, and the expenditures $200,529,235 less than the estimates. Nothing could more clearly indicate than these statements the extent and availability of the national resources, and the rapidity and safety with which, under our form of government, great military and naval establishments can be disbanded, and expenses reduced from a war to a peace footing.

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1866, the receipts were $558,032,620, and the expenditures $520,750,940, leaving an available surplus of $37,281,680. It is estimated that the receipts for the fiscal year ending the 30th June, 1867, will be $475,061,386, and that the expenditures will reach the sum of $316,428,078, leaving in the treasury a surplus of $158,633,308. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1868, it is estimated that the receipts will amount to $436,000,000, and that the expenditures will be $350,247,641—showing an excess of $85,752,359 in favor of the government. These estimated receipts may be diminished by a reduction of excise and import duties; but after all necessary reductions shall have been made, the revenue of the present and of following years will doubtless be sufficient to cover all legitimate charges upon the treasury, and leave a large annual surplus to be applied to the payment of the principal of the debt. There seems now to be no good reason why taxes may not be reduced as the country advances in population and wealth, and yet the debt be extinguished within the next quarter of a century.

The report of the Secretary of War furnishes valuable and important information in reference to the operations of his department during the past year. Few volunteers now remain in the service, and they are being discharged as rapidly as they can be replaced by regular troops. The army has been promptly paid, carefully provided with medical treatment, well sheltered and subsisted, and is to be furnished with breech-loading small-arms. The military strength of the nation has been unimpaired by the discharge of volunteers, the disposition of unserviceable or perishable stores, and the retrenchment of expenditure Sufficient war material to meet any emergency has been retained, and, from the disbanded volunteers standing ready to respond to the national call, large armies can be rapidly organized, equipped, and concentrated. Fortifications on the coast and frontier have received, or are being prepared for, more powerful armaments; lake surveys and harbor and river improvements are in course of energetic prosecution. Preparations have been made for the payment of the additional bounties authorized during the recent session of Congress, under such regulations as will protect the government from fraud, and secure to the honorably discharged soldier the well-earned reward of his faithfulness and gallantry. More than six thousand maimed soldiers have received artificial limbs or other surgical apparatus; and forty-one national cemeteries, containing the remains of 104,526 Union soldiers, have already been established. The total estimate of military appropriations is $25,205,669.

It is stated in the report of the Secretary of the Navy that the naval force at this time consists of two hundred and seventy-eight vessels, armed with two thousand three hundred and fifty-one guns. Of these, one hundred and fifteen vessels, carrying one thousand and twenty-nine guns, are in commission, distributed chiefly among seven squadrons. The number of men in the service is thirteen thousand six hundred. Great activity and vigilance have been displayed by all the squadrons, and their movements have been judiciously and efficiently arranged in such manner as would best promote American commerce, and protect the rights and interests of our countrymen abroad. The vessels unemployed are undergoing repairs, or are laid up until their services may be required. Most of the iron-clad fleet is at League island, in the vicinity of Philadelphia, a place which, until decisive action should be taken by Congress, was selected by the Secretary of the Navy as the most eligible location for that class of vessels. It is important that a suitable public station should be provided for the iron-clad fleet. It is intended that these vessels shall be in proper condition for any emergency, and it is desirable that the bill accepting League island for naval purposes, which passed the House of Representatives at its last session, should receive final action at an early period, in order that there may be a suitable public station for this class of vessels, as well as a navy yard of area sufficient for the wants of the service on the Delaware river. The naval pension fund amounts to $11,750,000, having been increased $2,750,000 during the year. The expenditures of the department for the fiscal year ending 30th June last were $43,324,526, and the estimates for the coming year amount to $23,568,436. Attention is invited to the condition of our seamen, and the importance of legislative measures for their relief and improvement. The suggestions in behalf of this deserving class of our fellow-citizens are earnestly recommended to the favorable attention of Congress.

The report of the Postmaster General presents a most satisfactory condition of the postal service, and submits recommendations which deserve the consideration of Congress. The revenues of the department for the year ending June 30, 1866, were $14,386,986, and the expenditures $15,352,079, showing an excess of the latter of $965,093. In anticipation of this deficiency, however, a special appropriation was made by Congress in the act approved July 28, 1866. Including the standing appropriation of $700,000 for free mail matter, as a legitimate portion of the revenues yet remaining unexpended, the actual deficiency for the past year is only $265,093—a sum within $51,141 of the amount estimated in the annual report of 1864. The decrease of revenue compared with the previous year was one and one-fifth per cent., and the increase of expenditures, owing principally to the enlargement of the mail service in the south, was twelve per cent. On the 30th of June last there were in operation six thousand nine hundred and thirty mail routes, with an aggregate length of one hundred and eighty thousand nine hundred and twenty-one miles, an aggregate annual transportation of seventy-one million eight hundred and thirty-seven thousand nine hundred and fourteen miles, and an aggregate annual cost, including all expenditures, of $8,410,184. The length of railroad routes is thirty-two thousand and ninety-two miles, and the annual transportation thirty million six hundred and nine thousand four hundred and sixty-seven miles. The length of steamboat routes is fourteen thousand three hundred and forty-six miles, and the annual transportation three million four hundred and eleven thousand nine hundred and sixty-two miles. The mail service is rapidly increasing throughout the whole country, and its steady extension in the southern States indicates their constantly improving condition. The growing importance of the foreign service also merits attention. The post office department of Great Britain and our own have agreed upon a preliminary basis for a new postal convention, which it is believed will prove eminently beneficial to the commercial interests of the United States, inasmuch as it contemplates a reduction of the international letter postage to one-half the existing rates; a reduction of postage with all other countries to and from which correspondence is transmitted in the British mail, or in closed mails through the United Kingdom; the establishment of uniform and reasonable charges for the sea and territorial transit of correspondence in closed mails; and an allowance to each post office department of the right to use all mail communications established under the authority of the other for the despatch of correspondence, either in open or closed mails, on the same terms as those applicable to the inhabitants of the country providing the means of transmission.

The report of the Secretary of the Interior exhibits the condition of those branches of the public service which are committed to his supervision. During the last fiscal year four million six hundred and twenty-nine thousand three hundred and twelve acres of public land were disposed of, one million eight hundred and ninety-two thousand five hundred and sixteen acres of which were entered under the homestead act. The policy originally adopted relative to the public lands has undergone essential modifications. Immediate revenue, and not their rapid settlement, was the cardinal feature of our land system. Long experience and earnest discussion have resulted in the conviction that the early development of our agricultural resources, and the diffusion of an energetic population over our vast territory, are objects of far greater importance to the national growth and prosperity than the proceeds of the sale of the land to the highest bidder in open market. The pre-emption laws confer upon the pioneer who complies with the terms they impose the privilege of purchasing a limited portion of "unoffered lands" at the minimum price. The homestead enactments relieve the settler from the payment of purchase money, and secure him a permanent home, upon the condition of residence for a term of years. This liberal policy invites emigration from the Old, and from the more crowded portions of the New World. Its propitious results are undoubted, and will be more signally manifested when time shall have given to it a wider development.

Congress has made liberal grants of public land to corporations, in aid of the construction of railroads and other internal improvements. Should this policy hereafter prevail, more stringent provisions will be required to secure a faithful application of the fund. The title to the lands should not pass, by patent or otherwise, but remain in the government and subject to its control until some portion of the road has been actually built. Portions of them might then, from time to time, be conveyed to the corporation, but never in a greater ratio to the whole quantity embraced by the grant than the completed parts bear to the entire length of the projected improvement. This restriction would not operate to the prejudice of any undertaking conceived in good faith and executed with reasonable energy, as it is the settled practice to withdraw from market the lands falling within the operation of such grants, and thus to exclude the inception of a subsequent adverse right. A breach of the conditions which Congress may deem proper to impose should work a forfeiture of claim to the lands so withdrawn but unconveyed, and of title to the lands conveyed which remain unsold.

Operations on the several lines of the Pacific railroad have been prosecuted with unexampled vigor and success. Should no unforeseen causes of delay occur, it is confidently anticipated that this great thoroughfare will be completed before the expiration of the period designated by Congress.

During the last fiscal year the amount paid to pensioners, including the expenses of disbursement, was thirteen million four hundred and fifty-nine thousand nine hundred and ninety-six dollars; and fifty thousand one hundred and seventy-seven names were added to the pension rolls. The entire number of pensioners June 30, 1866, was one hundred and twenty-six thousand seven hundred and twenty-two. This fact furnishes melancholy and striking proof of the sacrifices made to vindicate the constitutional authority of the federal government, and to maintain inviolate the integrity of the Union. They impose upon us corresponding obligations. It is estimated that thirty-three million dollars will be required to meet the exigencies of this branch of the service during the next fiscal year.

Treaties have been concluded with the Indians, who, enticed into armed opposition to our government at the outbreak of the rebellion, have unconditionally submitted to our authority, and manifested an earnest desire for a renewal of friendly relations.

During the year ending September 30, 1866, eight thousand seven hundred and sixteen patents for useful inventions and designs were issued, and at that date the balance in the treasury to the credit of the patent fund was two hundred and twenty-eight thousand two hundred and ninety-seven dollars.

As a subject upon which depends an immense amount of the production and commerce of the country, I recommend to Congress such legislation as may be necessary for the preservation of the levees of the Mississippi river. It is a matter of national importance that early steps should be taken not only to add to the efficiency of these barriers against destructive inundations, but for the removal of all obstructions to the free and safe navigation of that great channel of trade and commerce.

The District of Columbia, under existing laws, is not entitled to that representation in the national councils which from our earliest history has been uniformly accorded to each Territory established from time to time within our limits. It maintains peculiar relations to Congress, to whom the Constitution has granted the power of exercising exclusive legislation over the seat of government. Our fellow-citizens residing in the District, whose interests are thus confided to the special guardianship of Congress, exceed in number the population of several of our Territories, and no just reason is perceived why a delegate of their choice should not be admitted to a seat in the House of Representatives. No mode seems so appropriate and effectual of enabling them to make known their peculiar condition and wants, and of securing the local legislation adapted to them. I therefore recommend the passage of a law authorizing the electors of the District of Columbia to choose a delegate, to be allowed the same rights and privileges as a delegate representing a Territory. The increasing enterprise and rapid progress of improvement in the District are highly gratifying, and I trust that the efforts of the municipal authorities to promote the prosperity of the national metropolis will receive the efficient and generous co-operation of Congress.

The report of the Commissioner of Agriculture reviews the operations of his department during the past year, and asks the aid of Congress in its efforts to encourage those States which, scourged by war, are now earnestly engaged in the reorganization of domestic industry.

It is a subject of congratulation that no foreign combinations against our domestic peace and safety, or our legitimate influence among the nations, have been formed or attempted. While sentiments of reconciliation, loyalty, and patriotism have increased at home, a more just consideration of our national character and rights has been manifested by foreign nations.

The entire success of the Atlantic telegraph between the coast of Ireland and the province of Newfoundland is an achievement which has been justly celebrated in both hemispheres as the opening of an era in the progress of civilization. There is reason to expect that equal success will attend, and even greater results follow, the enterprise for connecting the two continents through the Pacific ocean by the projected line of telegraph between Kamschatka and the Russian possessions in America.

The resolution of Congress protesting against pardons by foreign governments of persons convicted of infamous offences, on condition of emigration to our country, has been communicated to the states with which we maintain intercourse, and the practice, so justly the subject of complaint on our part, has not been renewed.

The congratulations of Congress to the Emperor of Russia, upon his escape from attempted assassination, have been presented to that humane and enlightened ruler, and received by him with expressions of grateful appreciation.

The Executive, warned of an attempt by Spanish-American adventurers to induce the emigration of freedmen of the United States to a foreign country, protested against the project as one which, if consummated, would reduce them to a bondage even more oppressive than that from which they have just been relieved. Assurance has been received from the government of the state in which the plan was matured, that the proceeding will meet neither its encouragement nor approval. It is a question worthy of your consideration, whether our laws upon this subject are adequate to the prevention or punishment of the crime thus meditated.

In the month of April last, as Congress is aware, a friendly arrangement was made between the Emperor of France and the President of the United States for the withdrawal from Mexico of the French expeditionary military forces. This withdrawal was to be effected in three detachments, the first of which, it was understood, would leave Mexico in November, now past, the second in March next, and the third and last in November, 1867. Immediately upon the completion of the evacuation, the French government was to assume the same attitude of non-intervention in regard to Mexico as is held by the government of the United States. Repeated assurances have been given by the Emperor since that agreement that he would complete the promised evacuation within the period mentioned, or sooner.

It was reasonably expected that the proceedings thus contemplated would produce a crisis of great political interest in the republic of Mexico. The newly appointed minister of the United States, Mr. Campbell, was therefore sent forward on the ninth day of November last, to assume his proper functions as minister plenipotentiary of the United States to that republic. It was also thought expedient that he should be attended in the vicinity of Mexico by the lieutenant general of the army of the United States, with the view of obtaining such information as might be important to determine the course to be pursued by the United States in re-establishing and maintaining necessary and proper intercourse with the republic of Mexico. Deeply interested in the cause of liberty and humanity, it seemed an obvious duty on our part to exercise whatever influence we possessed for the restoration and permanent establishment in that country of a domestic and republican form of government.

Such was the condition of our affairs in regard to Mexico when, on the 22d of November last, official information was received from Paris that the Emperor of France had some time before decided not to withdraw a detachment of his forces in the month of November past, according to engagement, but that this decision was made with the purpose of withdrawing the whole of those forces in the ensuing spring. Of this determination, however, the United States had not received any notice or intimation; and, so soon as the information was received by the government, care was taken to make known its dissent to the Emperor of France.

I cannot forego the hope that France will reconsider the subject, and adopt some resolution in regard to the evacuation of Mexico which will conform as nearly as practicable with the existing engagement, and thus meet the just expectations of the United States. The papers relating to the subject will be laid before you. It is believed that, with the evacuation of Mexico by the expeditionary forces, no subject for serious differences between France and the United States would remain. The expressions of the Emperor and people of France warrant a hope that the traditionary friendship between the two countries might in that case be renewed and permanently restored.

A claim of a citizen of the United States for indemnity for spoliation committed on the high seas by the French authorities, in the exercise of a belligerent power against Mexico, has been met by the government of France with a proposition to defer settlement until a mutual convention for the adjustment of all claims of citizens and subjects of both countries, arising out of the recent wars on this continent, shall be agreed upon by the two countries. The suggestion is not deemed unreasonable, but it belongs to Congress to direct the manner in which claims for indemnity by foreigners, as well as by citizens of the United States, arising out of the late civil war, shall be adjudicated and determined. I have no doubt that the subject of all such claims will engage your attention at a convenient and proper time.

It is a matter of regret that no considerable advance has been made towards an adjustment of the differences between the United States and Great Britain arising out of the depredations upon our national commerce and other trespasses committed during our civil war by British subjects, in violation of international law and treaty obligations. The delay, however, may be believed to have resulted in no small degree from the domestic situation of Great Britain. An entire change of ministry occurred in that country during the last session of Parliament. The attention of the new ministry was called to the subject at an early day, and there is some reason to expect that it will now be considered in a becoming and friendly spirit. The importance of an early disposition of the question cannot be exaggerated. Whatever might be the wishes of the two governments, it is manifest that good-will and friendship between the two countries cannot be established until a reciprocity, in the practice of good faith and neutrality, shall be restored between the respective nations.

On the 6th of June last, in violation of our neutrality laws, a military expedition and enterprise against the British North American colonies was projected and attempted to be carried on within the territory and jurisdiction of the United States. In obedience to the obligation imposed upon the Executive by the Constitution, to see that the laws are faithfully executed, all citizens were warned, by proclamation, against taking part in or aiding such unlawful proceedings, and the proper civil, military, and naval officers were directed to take all necessary measures for the enforcement of the laws. The expedition failed, but it has not been without its painful consequences. Some of our citizens who, it was alleged, were engaged in the expedition, were captured, and have been brought to trial as for a capital offence, in the province of Canada. Judgment and sentence of death have been pronounced against some, while others have been acquitted. Fully believing in the maxim of government that severity of civil punishment for misguided persons who have engaged in revolutionary attempts which have disastrously failed, is unsound and unwise, such representations have been made to the British government, in behalf of the convicted persons, as, being sustained by an enlightened and humane judgment, will, it is hoped, induce in their cases an exercise of clemency, and a judicious amnesty to all who were engaged in the movement. Counsel has been employed by the government to defend citizens of the United States on trial for capital offences in Canada, and a discontinuance of the prosecutions which were instituted in the courts of the United States against those who took part in the expedition has been directed.

I have regarded the expedition as not only political in its nature, but as also in a great measure foreign from the United States in its causes, character, and objects. The attempt was understood to be made in sympathy with an insurgent party in Ireland, and, by striking at a British province on this continent, was designed to aid in obtaining redress for political grievances which, it was assumed, the people of Ireland had suffered at the hands of the British government during a period of several centuries. The persons engaged in it were chiefly natives of that country, some of whom had, while others had not, become citizens of the United States under our general laws of naturalization. Complaints of misgovernment in Ireland continually engage the attention of the British nation, and so great an agitation is now prevailing in Ireland that the British government have deemed it necessary to suspend the writ of habeas corpus in that country. These circumstances must necessarily modify the opinion which we might otherwise have entertained in regard to an expedition expressly prohibited by our neutrality laws. So long as those laws remain upon our statute books they should be faithfully executed, and if they operate harshly, unjustly, or oppressively, Congress alone can apply the remedy by their modification or repeal.

Political and commercial interests of the United States are not unlikely to be affected in some degree by events which are transpiring in the eastern regions of Europe, and the time seems to have come when our government ought to have a proper diplomatic representation in Greece.

This government has claimed for all persons not convicted, or accused, or suspected of crime, an absolute political right of self-expatriation, and a choice of new national allegiance. Most of the European states have dissented from this principle, and have claimed a right to hold such of their subjects as have immigrated to and been naturalized in the United States, and afterwards returned on transient visits to their native countries, to the performance of military service in like manner as resident subjects. Complaints arising from the claim in this respect made by foreign states have heretofore been matters of controversy between the United States and some of the European powers, and the irritation consequent upon the failure to settle this question increased during the war in which Prussia, Italy, and Austria were recently engaged. While Great Britain has never acknowledged the right of expatriation, she has not for some years past practically insisted upon the opposite doctrine. France has been equally forbearing; and Prussia has proposed a compromise, which, although evincing increased liberality, has not been accepted by the United States. Peace is now prevailing everywhere in Europe, and the present seems to be a favorable time for an assertion by Congress of the principle, so long maintained by the Executive department, that naturalization by one state fully exempts the native-born subject of any other state from the performance of military service under any foreign government, so long as he does not voluntarily renounce its rights and benefits.

In the performance of a duty imposed upon me by the Constitution, I have thus submitted to the representatives of the States and of the people such information of our domestic and foreign affairs as the public interests seem to require. Our government is now undergoing its most trying ordeal, and my earnest prayer is that the peril may be successfully and finally passed without impairing its original strength and symmetry. The interests of the nation are best to be promoted by the revival of fraternal relations, the complete obliteration tion of our past differences, and the reinauguration of all the pursuits of peace. Directing our efforts to the early accomplishment of these great ends, let us endeavor to preserve harmony between the co-ordinate departments of the government, that each in its proper sphere may cordially co-operate with the other in securing the maintenance of the Constitution, the preservation of the Union, and the perpetuity of our free institutions.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

Mr. Fessenden asked, and by unanimous consent obtained, leave to bring in a joint resolution (S. 146) for the relief of Charles Clark, marshal of the United States for the district of Maine; which was read the first and second times by unanimous consent and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. McPherson, its Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives has passed a joint resolution (H. R. 212) to appoint two managers for the National Asylum for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, to fill certain vacancies; in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate; and

It has passed the following resolution; in which it request the concurrence of the Senate:

Resolved, (the Senate concurring,) That the Joint Committee of Fifteen on Reconstruction, appointed during the last session of Congress, shall be reappointed under the same rules and regulations as then existed, and that all the documents and resolutions which were referred then be now considered as referred to them anew.

Mr. Henderson submitted the following resolution; which was considered, by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Navy be directed to communicate to the Senate copies of all orders, instructions, and directions made or issued by him, or by the chief of any bureau in his department, since the first day of April last, in relation to the employment of officers, master-workmen, mechanics, laborers, or other persons in the navy yards of the United States; and that he transmit to the Senate copies of all communications received by him or by the chief of any of the naval bureaus, on the subject of the employment of persons in the navy yard at Norfolk, Virginia, as well as copies of all communications from him, or such chiefs of bureaus, to any and all other persons, touching the subject of employment at such yard.

Mr. Sumner submitted the following resolutions; which were read and ordered to be printed:

Resolved, 1. That in the work of reconstruction it is important that no false step should be taken interposing obstacle or delay; but that, by careful provisions, we should make haste to complete the work, so that the unity of the republic shall be secured on permanent foundations, and fraternal relations shall be once more established among all the people thereof.

2. That this end can be accomplished only by following the guiding principles of our institutions as declared by our fathers when the republic was formed, and that any neglect or forgetfulness of these guiding principles must postpone the establishment of union, justice, domestic tranquillity, the general welfare, and the blessings of liberty, which are the declared objects of the Constitution, and, therefore, must be the essential object of reconstruction itself.

3. That this work of reconstruction must be conducted by Congress and under its constant supervision; that under the Constitution Congress is solemnly bound to assume this responsibility; and that, in the performance of this duty, it must see that everywhere throughout the rebel communities loyalty is protected and advanced, while the new governments are fashioned according to the requirements of a Christian commonwealth, so that order, tranquillity, education, and human rights shall prevail within their borders.

4. That, in determining what is a republican form of government, Congress must follow implicitly the definition supplied by the Declaration of Independence, and, in the practical application of this definition, it must, after excluding all disloyal persons, take care that new governments are founded on the two fundamental truths therein contained: first, that all men are equal in rights; and, secondly, that all just government stands only on the consent of the governed.

5. That all proceedings with a view to reconstruction originating in executive power are in the nature of usurpation; that this usurpation becomes especially offensive when it sets aside the fundamental truths of our institutions; that it is shocking to common sense when it undertakes to derive new governments from that hostile population which has just been engaged in armed rebellion; and that all governments having such origin are necessarily illegal and void.

6. That it is the duty of Congress to proceed with the work of reconstruction, and to this end it must assume jurisdiction of the States lately in rebellion, except so far as that jurisdiction may have been already renounced, and it must recognize only the loyal States or those States having legal and valid legislatures as entitled to representation in Congress, or to a voice in the adoption of constitutional amendments.

The bill (H. R. 828) to repeal section 13 of "An act to suppress insurrection, to punish treason and rebellion, to seize and confiscate the property of rebels, and for other purposes," was read the first and second times by unanimous consent and referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

On motion by Mr. Wilson,

The joint resolution (H. R. 212) to appoint two managers for the National Asylum for Disabled Volunteer Soldiers, to fill certain vacancies, was read the first and second times by unanimous consent and considered as in Committee of the Whole; and no amendment being made, it was reported to the Senate.

Ordered, That it pass to a third reading.

The said resolution was read the third time by unanimous consent.

Resolved, That it pass.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

On motion by Mr. Wade,

The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the bill (S. 456) for the admission of the State of Nebraska into the Union; and,

On motion by Mr. Wade,

Ordered, That it be referred to the Committee on Territories.

On motion by Mr. Wade,

The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the joint resolution (S. 33) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States; and,

On motion by Mr. Wade,

Ordered, That it be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary.

On motion by Mr. Sherman,

The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the bill (S. 452) to prevent and punish the illegal appointment of officers of the United States; and,

On motion by Mr. Sherman,

Ordered, That it be referred to the Committee on the Judiciary and printed.

On motion by Mr. Williams,

The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the bill (S. 453) to regulate the tenure of offices; and,

On motion by Mr. Williams,

Ordered, That it be referred to the Joint Committee on Retrenchment.

On motion by Mr. Morrill,

Ordered, That the bill (S. 1) to regulate the elective franchise in the District of Columbia, as amended, together with the proposed amendments, be printed.

On motion by Mr. Lane,

The Senate proceeded to consider the resolution, submitted by him on the 3d instant, directing the Committee on Printing to inquire into the expediency of providing by law for the election of the Superintendent of Public Printing; and

The resolution was agreed to.

On motion by Mr. Pomeroy,

The resolution directing the Secretary of the Senate to pay, out of the compensation fund of the Senate, the compensation due to the honorable James H. Lane at the time of his death to his widow was read the second time and considered as in Committee of the Whole; and no amendment being made, it was reported to the Senate.

Ordered, That it be engrossed and read a third time.

The said resolution was read the third time.

Resolved, That it pass.

The Senate proceeded to consider the resolution of the House of Representatives for the reappointment of the Joint Committee of Fifteen on Reconstruction, appointed during the last session of Congress; and

Resolved, That the Senate agree to the said resolution.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

On motion by Mr. Sumner,

Ordered, That so much of the President's message as concerns our foreign relations be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

On motion by Mr. Fessenden,

Ordered, That so much of the President's message as relates to finance be referred to the Committee on Finance.

On motion by Mr. Fessenden,

Ordered, That the annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury on the finances be referred to the Committee on Finance.

On motion by Mr. Pomeroy,

Ordered, That so much of the President's message as relates to public lands be referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

On motion by Mr. Fessenden that five thousand additional copies of the annual report of the Secretary of the Treasury on the state of the finances be printed for the use of the Senate, Ordered, That the motion be referred to the Committee on Printing.

On motion by Mr. Howard,

Ordered, That so much of the President's message as relates to the Pacific railroad be referred to the Committee on the Pacific Railroad.

On motion by Mr. Ramsey,

Ordered, That so much of the President's message as refers to post offices and post roads be referred to the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads.

On motion by Mr. Doolittle,

The Senate adjourned.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1866.

The honorable Edgar Cowan, from the State of Pennsylvania, attended.

Mr. Nesmith presented the memorial of W. L. Adams, collector of customs for the district of Oregon, praying to be relieved from all liability on account of money stolen from him while being transported to San Francisco; which was referred to the Committee on Claims.

Mr. Wilson presented six petitions of officers of the United States army, praying an increase of pay; which were referred to the Committee on Military Affairs and the Militia.

Mr. Poland presented four petitions of officers of the United States army, praying an increase of pay; which were referred to the Committee on Military Affairs and the Militia.

Mr. Harris presented a memorial of the Commercial Navigation Company of the State of New York, praying aid in the establishment of a line of steamships sailing under the flag of the United States, and owned by American citizens, for the conveyance of the foreign mails of the United States between New York and Bremen, touching at Southampton; which was referred to the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads.

Mr. Edmunds presented the memorial of M. E. Finney, praying to be allowed the three months' extra pay due her late husband, Solon H. Finney, first lieutenant 6th regiment Michigan cavalry; which was referred to the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. Sherman presented the memorial of Edward Dodge, praying that the name of the yacht "May Flower" may be changed to that of "Silvie;" which was referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. Williams presented a petition of citizens of Oregon, praying the establishment of a mail route from Salem to Silverton, in that State; which was referred to the Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads.

Mr. Poland presented resolutions of the legislature of Vermont in favor of a system of protective duties on imports, and recommending especially an increase of the duty on importations of foreign wool; which were read.

Ordered, That they lie on the table and be printed.

The Senate proceeded, by unanimous consent, to consider the said bill as in Committee of the Whole; and the reported amendments having been agreed to, the bill was reported to the Senate and the amendments were concurred in.

Ordered, That the amendments be engrossed and the bill read a third time.

The said bill, as amended, was read the third time.

Resolved, That it pass.

Ordered, That the Secretary request the concurrence of the House of Representatives in the amendments.

The President pro tempore signed the two enrolled bills (S. 308 and S. 373) yesterday reported to have been examined, and they were delivered to the committee to be presented to the President of the United States.

Mr. Pomeroy, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was referred the resolution of Mr. Howe of the 13th instant, to print ten thousand copies of the maps accompanying the late report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, also the motion of Mr. Ramsey of the 11th instant, to print ten thousand additional copies of the report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, and also the resolution of Mr. Howe of the 13th instant, to inquire into and report upon the expediency of printing the report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office for the year ending June 30, 1866, in the different languages spoken on the continent of Europe, for distribution at the Paris Exposition, submitted the following report:

"The Committee on Public Lands, to whom were referred the orders and resolutions of the Senate referring to the printing of the report of the Commissioner of the General Land Office, have had the same under consideration, and believing that the publication of said report in the leading languages of Europe, and the distribution of the same at the Paris Exposition, would promote immigration and the development of the public lands of the United States, would respectfully recommend that it be printed in the following ratio: 5,000 copies in the German language, 5,000 copies in the French language, 5,000 copies in the Swedish language, 5,000 copies for the use of the Senate."

The Senate proceeded, by unanimous consent, to consider the report; and,

On motion by Mr. Wade,

The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the bill (S. 456) for the admission of the State of Nebraska into the Union.

On motion by Mr. Brown to amend the bill by inserting at the end of section 2 the following proviso: Provided, That this act shall not take effect except upon the fundamental condition that within the State there shall be no denial of the elective franchise, or of any other rights, on account of color or race, but all persons shall be equal before the law; and the people of the Territory shall, by a majority of the voters therein, at such places and under such regulations as shall be prescribed by the governor thereof, declare their assent to this fundamental condition; and the governor shall transmit to the President of the United States an authentic statement of such assent whenever the same shall be given; upon the receipt whereof he shall, by proclamation, announce the fact, whereupon, without any further proceedings on the part of Congress, this act shall take effect;

After debate and the consideration of executive business,

The Senate adjourned.

MONDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1866.

The President pro tempore laid before the Senate a report of the Secretary of War, communicating, in compliance with a resolution of the Senate of the 6th instant, information in relation to the appointment of commissioners to hear claims of loyal citizens for compensation for slaves enlisted in the military service, provided for in the 24th section of an act entitled "An act to amend an act for enrolling and calling out the national forces, approved March 3, 1863," approved February 24, 1864; which was read.

Ordered, That it be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs and the Militia.

Mr. Sumner presented a paper containing the proceedings of a meeting held at Norfolk, Virginia, on the 11th of December, 1866, protesting against the adoption of the plan of reconstruction of the States lately in rebellion recommended by the President of the United States, and moved its reference to the Joint Committee to inquire into the condition of the States which formed the so-called Confederate States of America.

Mr. Saulsbury objected to the reception of the paper on the ground that, not being in the nature of a petition or memorial addressed to the Senate, it should not be received; whereupon

The President pro tempore submitted the question to the decision of the Senate, Shall the paper be received? and

It was determined in the affirmative.

So the paper was received, and

The motion of Mr. Sumner to refer it to the Joint Committee was agreed to.

On motion by Mr. Trumbull,
The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the bill (H. R. 828) to repeal section 13 of "An act to suppress insurrection, to punish treason and rebellion, to seize and confiscate the property of rebels, and for other purposes," approved July 17, 1862 ; and,

After debate,

Ordered, That the further consideration of the bill be postponed to to-morrow.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. Johnson, his secretary :

Mr. President: The President of the United States approved and signed on the 15th instant the following acts :

S. 308. An act confirming the title of Alexis Gardapier to a certain tract of land in the county of Brown and State of Wisconsin.

S. 373. An act releasing to Francis S. Lyon the interest of the United States in certain lands.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

The following message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Johnson, his secretary :

To the Senate and House of Representatives :

I communicate a translation of a letter of the 17th of August last, addressed to me by his Majesty Alexander, Emperor of Russia, in reply to the joint resolution of Congress, approved on the 16th of May, 1866, relative to the attempted assassination of the Emperor, a certified copy of which was, in compliance with the request of Congress, forwarded to his Majesty by the hands of Gustavus V. Fox, late Assistant Secretary of the Navy of the United States.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON, December 14, 1866.

The message was read.

Ordered, That it be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations and be printed.

Mr. Howe reported from the committee that they had examined and found duly enrolled the bill (S. 1) to regulate the elective franchise in the District of Columbia.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. McPherson, its Clerk :

Mr. President: The House of Representatives has reconsidered its vote agreeing to the amendments of the Senate to the bill of the House (H. R. 876) making appropriations and to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the service of the government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1867, and for other purposes ; and it has directed me to return the said bill and amendments to the Senate in compliance with its request.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives having signed an enrolled bill' (S. 1.) I am directed to bring it to the Senate for the signature of its President:

On motion by Mr. Fessenden,

Ordered, That the Secretary cause the error in the engrossment of the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 876) this day returned by the House of Representatives to the Senate to be corrected, and that he return the said bill and amendments to the House and request its concurrence in the said amendments.

The President pro tempore signed the enrolled bill (S. 1) last reported to have been examined, and it was delivered to the committee to be presented to the President of the United States.

The President pro tempore laid before the Senate a letter from the Secretary of the Treasury enclosing a communication from the Acting Comptroller of the Currency furnishing the information called for by the resolution of the Senate of the 13th instant, in relation to such national banking associations as have failed to comply with the provisions of law requiring a reserve of money to be kept on hand; which was read.

Ordered, That it be referred to the Committee on Finance.

The Senate resumed, as in Committee of the Whole, the consideration of the bill (S. 456) for the admission of the State of Nebraska into the Union; and the amendment proposed by Mr. Brown on the 14th instant having been withdrawn, and another amendment being proposed by Mr. Brown,

After debate,

On motion by Mr. Trumbull to postpone the present and all prior orders, and that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the bill (H. R. 828) to repeal section 13 of "An act to suppress insurrection, to punish treason and rebellion, to seize and confiscate the property of rebels, and for other purposes," approved July 17, 1862,

It was determined in the affirmative; and

The Senate resumed, as in Committee of the Whole, the consideration of the said bill; and an amendment being proposed by Mr. Saulsbury,

Mr. Johnson rose to address the Chair, but yielded the floor to

Mr. Frelinghuysen, who announced the death of the honorable William Wright, a senator of the United States from the State of New Jersey, which occurred at Newark, New Jersey, his place of residence, on the first of November last, during the recess of Congress, and submitted the following resolutions; which were considered, by unanimous consent, and unanimously agreed to:

Resolved, That the Senate has heard with deep sensibility the announcement of the death of the honorable William Wright, while a senator in Congress from the State of New Jersey.

Resolved, That as a testimonial of respect for the memory of the deceased, the members of the Senate will wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days.

Resolved, That these proceedings be communicated to the family of the deceased by the Secretary of the Senate.

Resolved, That, as a further mark of respect for the memory of the deceased, the Senate do now adjourn.

Ordered, That the Secretary communicate these resolutions to the House of Representatives.

Whereupon,

The Senate adjourned.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 18, 1866.

The Senate proceeded to consider the amendment of the House of Representatives to the joint resolution of the Senate (S. 154) to provide for the exhibition of cereal productions of the United States at the Paris Exposition in April next; and

On motion by Mr. Cattell,

Resolved, That the Senate agree to the amendment of the House of Representatives to the said resolution.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

The following message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Johnson, his secretary :

To the Senate of the United States :

I have received and considered a bill entitled "An act to regulate the elective franchise in the District of Columbia," passed by the Senate on the 13th of December, and by the House of Representatives on the succeeding day. It was presented for my approval on the 26th ultimo—six days after the adjournment of Congress—and is now returned with my objections to the Senate, in which house it originated.

Measures having been introduced, at the commencement of the first session of the present Congress, for the extension of the elective franchise to persons of color in the District of Columbia, steps were taken by the corporate authorities of Washington and Georgetown to ascertain and make known the opinion of the people of the two cities upon a subject so immediately affecting their welfare as a community. The question was submitted to the people at special elections, held in the month of December, 1865, when the qualified voters of Washington and Georgetown, with great unanimity of sentiment, expressed themselves opposed to the contemplated legislation. In Washington, in a vote of 6,556—the largest, with but two exceptions, ever polled in that city—only thirty-five ballots were cast for negro suffrage; while in Georgetown, in an aggregate of 813 votes—a number considerably in excess of the average vote at the four preceding annual elections—but one was given in favor of the proposed extension of the elective franchise. As these elections seem to have been conducted with entire fairness, the result must be accepted as a truthful expression of the opinion of the people of the District upon the question which evoked it. Possessing, as an organized community, the same popular right as the inhabitants of a State or Territory to make known their will upon matters which affect their social and political condition, they could have selected no more appropriate mode of memorializing Congress upon the subject of this bill than through the suffrages of their qualified voters.

Entirely disregarding the wishes of the people of the District of Columbia, Congress has deemed it right and expedient to pass the measure now submitted for my signature. It therefore becomes the duty of the Executive, standing between the legislation of the one and the will of the other, fairly expressed, to determine whether he should approve the bill, and thus aid in placing upon the statute books of the nation a law against which the people to whom it is to apply have solemnly and with such unanimity protested, or whether he should return it with his objections, in the hope that, upon reconsideration, Congress, acting as the representatives of the inhabitants of the seat of government, will permit them to regulate a purely local question as to them may seem best suited to their interests and condition.

The District of Columbia was ceded to the United States by Maryland and Virginia in order that it might become the permanent seat of government of the United States. Accepted by Congress, it at once became subject to the "exclusive legislation" for which provision is made in the federal Constitution. It should be borne in mind, however, that in exercising its functions as the law-making power of the District of Columbia, the authority of the national legislature is not without limit, but that Congress is bound to observe the letter and spirit of the Constitution as well in the enactment of local laws for the seat of government as in legislation common to the entire Union. Were it to be admitted that the right "to exercise exclusive legislation in all cases whatsoever" conferred upon Congress unlimited power within the District of Columbia, titles of nobility might be granted within its boundaries; laws might be made "respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievances." Despotism would thus reign at the seat of government of a free republic, and, as a place of permanent residence, it would be avoided by all who prefer the blessings of liberty to the mere emoluments of official position.

It should also be remembered that in legislating for the District of Columbia, under the federal Constitution, the relation of Congress to its inhabitants is analogous to that of a legislature to the people of a State under their own local constitution. It does not, therefore, seem to be asking too much that, in matters pertaining to the District, Congress should have a like respect for the will and interest of its inhabitants as is entertained by a State legislature for the wishes and prosperity of those for whom they legislate. The spirit of our Constitution and the genius of our government require that, in regard to any law which is to affect and have a permanent bearing upon a people, their will should exert at least a reasonable influence upon those who are acting in the capacity of their legislators. Would, for instance, the legislature of the State of New York, or of Pennsylvania, or of Indiana, or of any State in the Union, in opposition to the expressed will of a large majority of the people whom they were chosen to represent, arbitrarily force upon them, as voters, all persons of the African or negro race, and make them eligible for office without any other qualification than a certain term of residence within the State? In neither of the States named would the colored population, when acting together, be able to produce any great social or political result. Yet, in New York, before he can vote the man of color must fulfil conditions that are not required of the white citizen; in Pennsylvania the elective franchise is restricted to white freemen; while in Indiana negroes and mulattoes are expressly excluded from the right of suffrage. It hardly seems consistent with the principles of right and justice that representatives of States where suffrage is either denied the colored man or granted to him on qualifications requiring intelligence or property, should compel the people of the District of Columbia to try an experiment which their own constituents have thus far shown an unwillingness to test for themselves. Nor does it accord with our republican ideas that the principle of self-government should lose its force when applied to the residents of the District, merely because their legislators are not, like those of the States, responsible, through the ballot, to the people for whom they are the law-making power.

The great object of placing the seat of government under the exclusive legislation of Congress was to secure the entire independence of the general government from undue State influence, and to enable it to discharge, without danger of interruption or infringement of its authority, the high functions for which it was created by the people. For this important purpose it was ceded to the United States by Maryland and Virginia, and it certainly never could have been contemplated, as one of the objects to be attained by placing it under the exclusive jurisdiction of Congress, that it would afford to propagandists or political parties a place for an experimental test of their principles and theories. While, indeed, the residents of the seat of government are not citizens of any State, and are not therefore allowed a voice in the electoral college, or representation in the councils of the nation, they are, nevertheless, American citizens, entitled as such to every guarantee of the Constitution, to every benefit of the laws, and to every right which pertains to citizens of our common country. In all matters, then, affecting their domestic affairs, the spirit of our democratic form of government demands that their wishes should be consulted and respected, and they taught to feel that, although not permitted practically to participate in national concerns, they are nevertheless under a paternal government, regardless of their rights, mindful of their wants, and solicitous for their prosperity. It was evidently contemplated that all local questions would be left to their decision, at least to an extent that would not be incompatible with the object for which Congress was granted exclusive legislation over the seat of government. When the Constitution was yet under consideration, it was assumed by Mr. Madison that its inhabitants would be allowed "a municipal legislature for local purposes, derived from their own suffrages." When, for the first time, Congress, in the year 1800, assembled at Washington, President Adams, in his speech at its opening, reminded the two houses that it was for them to consider whether the local powers over the District of Columbia, vested by the Constitution in the Congress of the United States, should be immediately exercised, and he asked them to "consider it as the capital of a great nation, advancing with unexampled rapidity in arts, in commerce, in wealth, and in population, and possessing within itself those resources which, if not thrown away or lamentably misdirected, would secure to it a long course of prosperity and self-government." Three years had not elapsed when Congress was called upon to determine the propriety of retroceding to Maryland and Virginia the jurisdiction of the territory which they had respectively relinquished to the government of the United States. It was urged on the one hand that exclusive jurisdiction was not necessary or useful to the government; that it deprived the inhabitants of the District of their political rights; that much of the time of Congress was consumed in legislation pertaining to it; that its government was expensive; that Congress was not competent to legislate for the District, because the members were strangers to its local concerns; and that it was an example of a government without representation—an experiment dangerous to the liberties of the States. On the other hand, it was held, among other reasons, and successfully, that the Constitution, the acts of cession of Virginia and Maryland, and the act of Congress accepting the grant, all contemplated the exercise of exclusive legislation by Congress, and that its usefulness, if not its necessity, was inferred from the inconvenience which was felt for want of it by the Congress of the Confederation; that the people themselves, who it was said had been deprived of their political rights, had not complained and did not desire a retrocession; that the evil might be remedied by giving them a representation in Congress when the District should become sufficiently populous, and in the mean time a local legislature; that if the inhabitants had not political rights, they had great political influence; that the trouble and expense of legislating for the District would not be great, but would diminish, and might, in a great measure, be avoided by a local legislature; and that Congress could not retrocede the inhabitants without their consent. Continuing to live substantially under the laws that existed at the time of the cession, and such changes only having been made as were suggested by themselves, the people of the District have not sought, by a local legislature, that which has generally been willingly conceded by the Congress of the nation.

As a general rule, sound policy requires that the legislature should yield to the wishes of a people, when not inconsistent with the Constitution and the laws.

The measures suited to one community might not be well adapted to the condition of another; and the persons best qualified to determine such questions are those whose interests are to be directly affected by any proposed law. In Massachusetts, for instance, male persons are allowed to vote without regard to color, provided they possess a certain degree of intelligence. In a population in that State of 1,231,066, there were, by the census of 1860, only 9,602 persons of color; and of the males over twenty years of age, there were 339,086 white to 2,602 colored. By the same official enumeration, there were in the District of Columbia 60,764 whites to 14,316 persons of the colored race. Since then, however, the population of the District has largely increased, and it is estimated that at the present time there are nearly a hundred thousand whites to thirty thousand negroes. The cause of the augmented numbers of the latter class needs no explanation. Contiguous to Maryland and Virginia, the District, during the war, became a place of refuge for those who escaped from servitude, and it is yet the abiding place of a considerable proportion of those who sought within its limits a shelter from bondage. Until then held in slavery, and denied all opportunities for mental culture, their first knowledge of the government was acquired when, by conferring upon them freedom, it became the benefactor of their race; the test of their capability for improvement began when, for the first time, the career of free industry and the avenues to intelligence were opened to them. Possessing these advantages but a limited time—the greater number perhaps having entered the District of Columbia during the later years of the war, or since its termination—we may well pause to inquire whether, after so brief a probation, they are as a class capable of an intelligent exercise of the right of suffrage, and qualified to discharge the duties of official position. The people who are daily witnesses of their mode of living, and who have become familiar with their habits of thought, have expressed the conviction that they are not yet competent to serve as electors, and thus become eligible for office in the local governments under which they live. Clothed with the elective franchise, their numbers, already largely in excess of the demand for labor, would be soon increased by an influx from the adjoining States. Drawn from fields where employment is abundant, they would in vain seek it here, and so add to the embarrassments already experienced from the large class of idle persons congregated in the District. Hardly yet capable of forming correct judgments upon the important questions that often make the issues of a political contest, they could readily be made subservient to the purposes of designing persons. While in Massachusetts, under the census of 1860, the proportion of white to colored males over twenty years of age was one hundred and thirty to one, here the black race constitutes nearly one-third of the entire population, whilst the same class surrounds the District on all sides, ready to change their residence at a moment's notice, and with all the facility of a nomadic people, in order to enjoy here, after a short residence, a privilege they find nowhere else. It is within their power in one year to come into the District in such numbers as to have the supreme control of the white race, and to govern them by their own officers, and by the exercise of all the municipal authority—among the rest, of the power of taxation over property in which they have no interest. In Massachusetts, where they have enjoyed the benefits of a thorough educational system, a qualification of intelligence is required, while here suffrage is extended to all, without discrimination—as well to the most incapable, who can prove a residence in the District of one year, as to those persons of color who, comparatively few in number, are permanent inhabitants, and having given evidence of merit and qualification, are recognized as useful and responsible members of the community. Imposed upon an unwilling people, placed by the Constitution under the exclusive legislation of Congress, it would be viewed as an arbitrary exercise of power, and as an indication by the country of the purpose of Congress to compel the acceptance of negro suffrage by the States. It would engender a feeling of opposition and hatred between the two races, which, becoming deep-rooted and ineradicable, would prevent them from living together in a state of mutual friendliness. Carefully avoiding every measure that might tend to produce such a result, and following the clear and well ascertained popular will, we should assiduously endeavor to promote kindly relations between them, and thus, when that popular will leads the way, prepare for the gradual and harmonious introduction of this new element into the political power of the country.

It cannot be urged that the proposed extension of suffrage in the District of Columbia is necessary to enable persons of color to protect either their interests or their rights. They stand here precisely as they stand in Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Indiana. Here, as elsewhere, in all that pertains to civil rights, there is nothing to distinguish this class of persons from citizens of the United States; for they possess the "full and equal benefit of all laws and proceedings for the security of person and property as is enjoyed by white citizens," and are made "subject to like punishment, pains, and penalties, and to none other, any law, statute, ordinance, regulation, or custom to the contrary notwithstanding." Nor, as has been assumed, are their suffrages necessary to aid a loyal sentiment here; for local governments already exist of undoubted fealty to the government, and are sustained by communities which were among the first to testify their devotion to the Union, and which during the struggle furnished their full quotas of men to the military service of the country.

The exercise of the elective franchise is the highest attribute of an American citizen, and, when guided by virtue, intelligence, patriotism, and a proper appreciation of our institutions, constitutes the true basis of a democratic form of government, in which the sovereign power is lodged in the body of the people. Its influence for good necessarily depends upon the elevated character and patriotism of the elector; for if exercised by persons who do not justly estimate its value, and who are indifferent as to its results, it will only serve as a means of placing power in the hands of the unprincipled and ambitious, and must eventuate in the complete destruction of that liberty of which it should be the most powerful conservator. Great danger is, therefore, to be apprehended from an untimely extension of the elective franchise to any new class in our country, especially when the large majority of that class, in wielding the power thus placed in their hands, cannot be expected correctly to comprehend the duties and responsibilities which pertain to suffrage. Yesterday, as it were, four millions of persons were held in a condition of slavery that had existed for generations; to-day they are freemen, and are assumed by law to be citizens. It cannot be presumed, from their previous condition of servitude, that as a class they are as well informed as to the nature of our government as the intelligent foreigner who makes our land the home of his choice. In the case of the latter, neither a residence of five years, and the knowledge of our institutions which it gives, nor attachment to the principles of the Constitution, are the only conditions upon which he can be admitted to citizenship: he must prove, in addition, a good moral character, and thus give reasonable ground for the belief that he will be faithful to the obligations which he assumes as a citizen of the republic. Where a people—the source of all political power—speak, by their suffrages, through the instrumentality of the ballot-box, it must be carefully guarded against the control of those who are corrupt in principle and enemies of free institutions, for it can only become to our political and social system a safe conductor of healthy popular sentiment when kept free from demoralizing influences. Controlled, through fraud and usurpation, by the designing, anarchy and despotism must inevitably follow. In the hands of the patriotic and worthy, our government will be preserved upon the principles of the Constitution inherited from our fathers. It follows, therefore, that in admitting to the ballot-box a new class of voters not qualified for the exercise of the elective franchise, we weaken our system of government instead of adding to its strength and durability.

In returning this bill to the Senate, I deeply regret that there should be any conflict of opinion between the legislative and executive departments of the government in regard to measures that vitally affect the prosperity and peace of the country. Sincerely desiring to reconcile the States with one another, and the whole people to the government of the United States, it has been my earnest wish to co-operate with Congress in all measures having for their object a proper and complete adjustment of the questions resulting from our late civil war. Harmony between the co-ordinate branches of the government, always necessary for the public welfare, was never more demanded than at the present time, and it will therefore be my constant aim to promote, as far as possible, concert of action between them. The differences of opinion that have already occurred have rendered me only the more cautious, lest the Executive should encroach upon any of the prerogatives of Congress, or, by exceeding in any manner the constitutional limit of his duties, destroy the equilibrium which should exist between the several co-ordinate departments, and which is so essential to the harmonious working of the government. I know it has been urged that the executive department is more likely to enlarge the sphere of its action than either of the other two branches of the government, and especially in the exercise of the veto power conferred upon it by the Constitution. It should be remembered, however, that this power is wholly negative and conservative in its character, and was intended to operate as a check upon unconstitutional, hasty, and improvident legislation, and as a means of protection against invasions of the just powers of the executive and judicial departments. It is remarked by Chancellor Kent that "to enact laws is a transcendent power; and, if the body that possesses it be a full and equal representation of the people, there is danger of its pressing with destructive weight upon all the other parts of the machinery of government. It has, therefore, been thought necessary, by the most skilful and most experienced artists in the science of civil polity, that strong barriers should be erected for the protection and security of the other necessary powers of the government. Nothing has been deemed more fit and expedient for the purpose than the provision that the head of the executive department should be so constituted as to secure a requisite share of independence, and that he should have a negative upon the passing of laws: and that the judiciary power, resting on a still more permanent basis, should have the right of determining upon the validity of laws by the standard of the Constitution."

The necessity of some such check in the hands of the Executive is shown by reference to the most eminent writers upon our system of government, who seem to concur in the opinion that encroachments are most to be apprehended from the department in which all legislative powers are vested by the Constitution. Mr. Madison, in referring to the difficulty of providing some practical security for each against the invasion of the others, remarks that "the legislative department is everywhere extending the sphere of its activity, and drawing all power into its impetuous vortex." "The founders of our republic * * * seem never to have recollected the danger from legislative usurpations, which, by assembling all power in the same hands, must lead to the same tyranny as is threatened by executive usurpations." "In a representative republic, where the executive magistracy is carefully limited, both in the extent and the duration of its power, and where the legislative power is exercised by an assembly which is inspired by a supposed influence over the people, with an intrepid confidence in its own strength, which is sufficiently numerous to feel all the passions which actuate a multitude, yet not so numerous as to be incapable of pursuing the objects of its passions by means which reason prescribes—it is against the enterprising ambition of this department that the people ought to indulge all their jealousy and exhaust all their precautions." "The legislative department derives a superiority in our governments from other circumstances. Its constitutional powers being at once more extensive and less susceptible of precise limits, it can with the greater facility mask, under complicated and indirect measures, the encroachments which it makes on the co-ordinate departments." "On the other side, the executive power being restrained within a narrower compass, and being more simple in its nature, and the judiciary being described by landmarks still less uncertain, projects of usurpation by either of these departments would immediately betray and defeat themselves. Nor is this all. As the legislative department alone has access to the pockets of the people, and has in some constitutions full discretion, and in all a prevailing influence over the pecuniary rewards of those who fill the other departments, a dependence is thus created in the latter which gives still greater facility to encroachments of the former." "We have seen that the tendency of republican governments is to an aggrandizement of the legislative, at the expense of the other departments."

Mr. Jefferson, in referring to the early constitution of Virginia, objected that by its provisions all the powers of government—legislative, executive, and judicial—resulted to the legislative body, holding that "the concentrating these in the same hands is precisely the definition of despotic government. It will be no alleviation that these powers will be exercised by a plurality of hands, and not by a single one. One hundred and seventy-three despots would surely be as oppressive as one." "As little will it avail us that they are chosen by ourselves. An elective despotism was not the government we fought for, but one which should not only be founded on free principles, but in which the powers of government should be so divided and balanced among several bodies of magistracy as that no one could transcend their legal limits without being effectually checked and restrained by the others. For this reason that convention which passed the ordinance of government laid its foundation on this basis, that the legislative, executive, and judicial departments should be separate and distinct, so that no person should exercise the powers of more than one of them at the same time. But no barrier was provided between these several powers. The judiciary and executive members were left dependent on the legislative for their subsistence in office, and some of them for their continuance in it. If, therefore, the legislature assumes executive and judiciary powers, no opposition is likely to be made, nor, if made, can be effectual; because in that case they may put their proceedings into the form of an act of assembly, which will render them obligatory on the other branches. They have accordingly, in many instances, decided rights which should have been left to judiciary controversy; and the direction of the Executive, during the whole time of their session, is becoming habitual and familiar."

Mr. Justice Story, in his Commentaries on the Constitution, reviews the same subject, and says :

"The truth is, that the legislative power is the great and overruling power in every free government." "The representatives of the people will watch with jealousy every encroachment of the executive magistrate, for it trenches upon their own authority. But who shall watch the encroachment of these representatives themselves? Will they be as jealous of the exercise of power by themselves as by others?" "There are many reasons which may be assigned for the engrossing influence of the legislative department. In the first place, its constitutional powers are more extensive, and less capable of being brought within precise limits than those of either the other departments. The bounds of the executive authority are easily marked out and defined. It reaches few objects, and those are known. It cannot transcend them without being brought in contact with the other departments. Laws may check and restrain and bound its exercise. The same remarks apply with still greater force to the judiciary. The jurisdiction is, or may be, bounded to a few objects or persons; or, however general and unlimited, its operations are necessarily confined to the mere administration of private and public justice. It cannot punish without law. It cannot create controversies to act upon. It can decide only upon rights and cases as they are brought by others before it. It can do nothing for itself. It must do everything for others. It must obey the laws; and if it corruptly administers them, it is subjected to the power of impeachment. On the other hand, the legislative power, except in the few cases of constitutional prohibition, is unlimited. It is forever varying its means and its ends. It governs the institutions, and laws, and public policy of the country. It regulates all its vast interests. It disposes of all its property. Look but at the exercise of two or three branches of its ordinary powers. It levies, all taxes; it directs and appropriates all supplies; it gives the rules for the descent, distribution, and devises of all property held by individuals. It controls the sources and the resources of wealth. It changes at its will the whole fabric of the laws. It moulds at its pleasure almost all the institutions which give strength, and comfort, and dignity to society. In the next place, it is the direct, visible representative of the will of the people in all the changes of times and circumstances. It has the pride as well as the power of numbers. It is easily moved and steadily moved by the strong impulses of popular feeling and popular odium. It obeys, without reluctance, the wishes and the will of the majority for the time being. The path to public favor lies open by such obedience; and it finds not only support, but impunity, in whatever measures the majority advises, even though they transcend the constitutional limits. It has no motive, therefore, to be jealous or scrupulous in its own use of power; and it finds its ambition stimulated and its arm strengthened by the countenance and the courage of numbers. These views are not alone those of men who look with apprehension upon the fate of republics, but they are also freely admitted by some of the strongest advocates for popular rights and the permanency of republican institutions." "Each department should have a will of its own." "Each should have its own independence secured beyond the power of being taken away by either or both of the others. But at the same time the relations of each to the other should be so strong that there should be a mutual interest to sustain and protect each other. There should not only be constitutional means, but personal motives to resist encroachments of one or either of the others. Thus, ambition would be made to counteract ambition; the desire of power to check power; and the pressure of interest to balance an opposing interest." "The judiciary is naturally and almost necessarily (as has been already said) the weakest department. It can have no means of influence by patronage. Its powers can never be wielded for itself. It has no command over the purse or the sword of the nation. It can neither lay taxes, nor appropriate money, nor command armies, nor appoint to office. It is never brought into contact with the people by constant appeals and solicitations, and private intercourse, which belong to all the other departments of government. It is seen only in controversies, or in trials and punishments. Its rigid justice and impartiality gives it no claims to favor, however they may to respect. It stands solitary and unsupported except by that portion of public opinion which is interested only in the strict administration of justice. It can rarely secure the sympathy or zealous support either of the executive or the legislature. If they are not (as is not unfrequently the case) jealous of its prerogatives, the constant necessity of scrutinizing the acts of each, upon the application of any private person, and the painful duty of pronouncing judgment that these acts are a departure from the law or Constitution can have no tendency to conciliate kindness or nourish influence. It would seem, therefore, that some additional guards would, under the circumstances, be necessary to protect this department from the absolute dominion of the others. Yet rarely have any such guards been applied; and every attempt to introduce them has been resisted with a pertinacity which demonstrates how slow popular leaders are to introduce checks upon their own power, and how slow the people are to believe that the judiciary is the real bulwark of their liberties." "If any department of the government has undue influence or absorbing power, it certainly has not been the executive or judiciary."

In addition to what has been said by these distinguished writers, it may also be urged that the dominant party in each house may, by the expulsion of a sufficient number of members, or by the exclusion from representation of a requisite number of States, reduce the minority to less than one-third. Congress, by these means, might be enabled to pass a law, the objections of the President to the contrary notwithstanding, which would render impotent the other two departments of the government, and make inoperative the wholesome and restraining power which it was intended by the framers of the Constitution should be exerted by them. This would be a practical concentration of all power in the Congress of the United States; this, in the language of the author of the Declaration of Independence, would be "precisely the definition of despotic government."

I have preferred to reproduce these teachings of the great statesmen and constitutional lawyers of the early and later days of the republic rather than to rely simply upon an expression of my own opinions. We cannot too often recur to them, especially at a conjuncture like the present. Their application to our actual condition is so apparent that they now come to us a living voice, to be listened to with more attention than at any previous period of our history. We have been and are yet in the midst of popular commotion. The passions aroused by a great civil war are still dominant. It is not a time favorable to that calm and deliberate judgment which is the only safe guide when radical changes in our institutions are to be made. The measure now before me is one of those changes. It initiates an untried experiment for a people who have said, with one voice, that it is not for their good. This alone should make us pause; but it is not all. The experiment has not been tried, or so much as demanded, by the people of the several States for themselves. In but few of the States has such an innovation been allowed as giving the ballot to the colored population without any other qualification than a residence of one year, and in most of them the denial of the ballot to this race is absolute, and by fundamental law placed beyond the domain of ordinary legislation. In most of those States the evil of such suffrage would be partial; but, small as it would be, it is guarded by constitutional barriers. Here the innovation assumes formidable proportions, which may easily grow to such an extent as to make the white population a subordinate element in the body politic.

After full deliberation upon this measure, I cannot bring myself to approve it, even upon local considerations, nor yet as the beginning of an experiment on a larger scale. I yield to no one in attachment to that rule of general suffrage which distinguishes our policy as a nation. But there is a limit, wisely observed hitherto, which makes the ballot a privilege and a trust, and which requires of some classes a time suitable for probation and preparation. To give it indiscriminately to a new class, wholly unprepared, by previous habits and opportunities, to perform the trust which it demands, is to degrade it, and finally to destroy its power; for it may be safely assumed that no political truth is better established than that such indiscriminate and all-embracing extension of popular suffrage must end at last in its destruction.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON, January 5, 1867.

The message was read; and

The Senate proceeded, as the Constitution provides, to reconsider the bill (S. 1) to regulate the elective franchise in the District of Columbia, returned by the President of the United States with his objections; which bill is in the following words, to wit:

“THIRTY-NINTH CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES,

“AT THE FIRST SESSION, BEGUN AND HELD AT THE CITY OF WASHINGTON ON MONDAY, THE FOURTH DAY OF DECEMBER, ONE THOUSAND EIGHT HUNDRED AND SIXTY-FIVE.

“Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That, from and after the passage of this act, each and every male person, excepting paupers and persons under guardianship, of the age of twenty-one years and upwards, who has not been convicted of any infamous crime or offence, and excepting persons who may have voluntarily given aid and comfort to the rebels in the late rebellion, and who shall have been born or naturalized in the United States, and who shall have resided in the said District for the period of one year, and three months in the ward or election precinct in which he shall offer to vote next preceding any election therein, shall be entitled to the elective franchise, and shall be deemed an elector and entitled to vote at any election in said District, without any distinction on account of color or race.

"SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That any person whose duty it shall be to receive votes at any election within the District of Columbia, who shall wilfully refuse to receive, or who shall wilfully reject, the vote of any person entitled to such right under this act, shall be liable to an action of tort by the person injured, and shall be liable, on indictment and conviction, if such act was done knowingly, to a fine not exceeding five thousand dollars, or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year in the jail of said District, or to both.

"SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That if any person or persons shall wilfully interrupt or disturb any such elector in the exercise of such franchise, he or they shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and, on conviction thereof, shall be fined in any sum not to exceed one thousand dollars, or be imprisoned in the jail in said District for a period not to exceed thirty days, or both, at the discretion of the court.

"SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the several courts having criminal jurisdiction in said District to give this act in special charge to the grand jury at the commencement of each term of the court next preceding the holding of any general or city election in said District.

"SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the mayors and aldermen of the cities of Washington and Georgetown, respectively, on or before the first day of March in each year, shall prepare a list of the persons they judge to be qualified to vote in the several wards of said cities in any election; and said mayors and aldermen shall be in open session to receive evidence of the qualification of persons claiming the right to vote in any election therein, and for correcting said list, on two days in each year, not exceeding five days prior to the annual election for the choice of city officers, giving previous notice of the time and place of each session in some newspaper printed in said District.

"SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That on or before the first day of March the mayors and aldermen of said cities shall post up a list of voters thus prepared in one or more public places in said cities, respectively, at least ten days prior to said annual election.

"SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That the officers presiding at any election shall keep and use the check-list herein required at the polls during the election of all officers, and no vote shall be received unless delivered by the voter in person, and not until the presiding officer has had opportunity to be satisfied of his identity, and shall find his name on the list, and mark it, and ascertain that his vote is single.

"SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That it is hereby declared unlawful for any person, directly or indirectly, to promise, offer, or give, or procure, or cause to be procured, offered, or given, any money, goods, right in action, bribe, present, or reward, or any promise, understanding, obligation, or security for the payment or delivery of any money, goods, right in action, bribe, present, or reward, or any other valuable thing whatever, to any person with intent to influence his vote to be given at any election hereafter to be held within the District of Columbia; and every person so offending shall, on conviction thereof, be fined in any sum not exceeding two thousand dollars, or imprisonment not exceeding two years, or both, at the discretion of the court.

"SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That any person who shall accept, directly or indirectly, any money, goods, right in action, bribe, present, or reward, or any promise, understanding, obligation, or security for the payment or delivery of any money, goods, right in action, bribe, present, or reward, or any other valuable thing whatever, to influence his vote at any election hereafter to be held in the District of Columbia, shall, on conviction, be imprisoned not less than one year and be forever disfranchised.

"SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That all acts and parts of acts inconsistent with this act be, and the same are hereby, repealed.

"SCHUYLER COLFAX,

"Speaker of the House of Representatives.

"LAFAYETTE S. FOSTER,

"President of the Senate pro tempore.

"I certify that this act did originate in the Senate.

"JOHN W. FORNEY, Secretary."

The President pro tempore stated the question before the Senate to be, Shall the bill pass, the objections of the President to the contrary notwithstanding?

On motion by Mr. Saulsbury that the further consideration of the bill be postponed to to-morrow, and that the message be printed,

It was determined in the negative; and

After debate,

On the question, Shall the bill pass, the objections of the President to the contrary notwithstanding?

It was determined in the affirmative, { Yeas 29
Nays 10

Those who voted in the affirmative are,

Messrs. Anthony, Cattell, Chandler, Conness, Cragin, Creswell, Edmunds, Fessenden, Fogg, Fowler, Frelinghuysen, Grimes, Henderson, Howard, Howe, Kirkwood, Lane, Morgan, Morrill, Poland, Ramsey, Ross, Sherman, Stewart, Sumner, Trumbull, Wade, Willey, Williams.

Those who voted in the negative are,

Messrs. Cowan, Dixon, Doolittle, Foster, Hendricks, Johnson, Nesmith, Norton, Patterson, Van Winkle.

So it was

Resolved, That the bill do pass—two-thirds of the senators present voting in the affirmative.

Ordered, That the Secretary communicate the bill "to regulate the elective franchise in the District of Columbia," with the message of the President of the United States returning the same to the Senate with his objections, and the proceedings of the Senate thereon, to the House of Representatives.

The Senate resumed, as in Committee of the Whole, the consideration of the bill (S. 453) to regulate the tenure of offices; and Ordered, That the further consideration of the said bill be postponed to to-morrow.

On motion by Mr. Wade,

The Senate resumed, as in Committee of the Whole, the consideration of the bill (S. 456) for the admission of the State of Nebraska into the Union; and the question being on the amendment proposed by Mr. Wilson on the 19th December last to the amendment of Mr. Brown,

After debate,

On motion by Mr. Hendricks that the Senate adjourn,

It was determined in the negative, { Yeas 11
Nays 22

On motion by Mr. Wade,

The yeas and nays being desired by one-fifth of the senators present,

Those who voted in the affirmative are,

Messrs. Cowan, Dixon, Doolittle, Henderson, Hendricks, Johnson, Norton, Patterson, Sherman, Sumner, Van Winkle.

Those who voted in the negative are,

Messrs. Cattell, Chandler, Conness, Cragin, Creswell, Edmunds, Fessenden, Foster, Frelinghuysen, Howard, Howe, Kirkwood, Lane, Morgan, Morrill, Poland, Ross, Stewart, Trumbull, Wade, Willey, Williams.

So the Senate refused to adjourn; and After further debate,

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Lloyd, chief clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives has passed the bill of the Senate (S. 462) to admit the State of Colorado into the Union, with an amendment, in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate; and

It has passed a bill (H. R. 356) fixing the compensation for the bailiffs and criers of the courts of the District of Columbia, in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate.

The President pro tempore signed the enrolled bill (H. R. 715) last reported to have been examined, and it was delivered to the committee to be presented to the President of the United States.

The Senate proceeded to consider the amendment of the House of Representatives to the bill of the Senate (S. 456) for the admission of the State of Nebraska into the Union; and while the same was under consideration,

The President pro tempore announced that the morning hour had expired, and stated that it was the duty of the Chair to call up the unfinished business of the Senate at its adjournment yesterday, which was the bill (S. 453) to regulate the tenure of office, and that the said bill was the business now before the Senate.

On motion by Mr. Wade to postpone the further consideration of the bill (S. 453) last mentioned to to-morrow, and that the Senate proceed with the consideration of the amendment of the House of Representatives to the bill (S. 456) for the admission of the State of Nebraska into the Union,

It was determined in the affirmative,	{	Yeas	24

Messrs. Anthony, Buckalew, Cowan, Dixon, Doolittle, Edmunds, Harris, Hendricks, Howe, Johnson, Nesmith, Norton, Patterson, Poland, Riddle, Saulsbury, Williams.

So the motion of Mr. Wade was agreed to; and

On the question to agree to the amendment of the House of Representatives to the said bill, (S. 456,) viz: In section 3 strike out all after the enacting clause, which is in the following words, viz: "That this act shall take effect with the fundamental and perpetual condition that within said State of Nebraska there shall be no abridgment or denial of the exercise of the elective franchise, or of any other right, to any person by reason of race or color, (excepting Indians not taxed," and inserting in lieu thereof the following: That this act shall not take effect except upon the fundamental condition that within the State of Nebraska there shall be no denial of the elective franchise, or of any other rights, to any person, by reason of race or color, excepting Indians not taxed; and upon the further fundamental condition that the legislature of said State, by a solemn public act, shall declare the assent of said State to the said fundamental condition, and shall transmit to the President of the United States an authentic copy of said act; upon receipt whereof the President, by proclamation, shall forthwith announce the fact, whereupon said fundamental condition shall be held as a part of the organic law of the State; and thereupon, and without any further proceeding on the part of Congress, the admission of said State into the Union shall be considered as complete. Said State legislature shall be convened by the territorial governor within thirty days after the passage of this act, to act upon the condition submitted herein.

On motion by Mr. Hendricks to amend the amendment of the House of Representatives by striking out all after the word "That" in line 1 of the part proposed to be inserted, and in lieu thereof inserting, this act shall not take effect except upon the fundamental condition that within the State of Nebraska there shall be no denial of the elective franchise, or of any other rights, to any person, by reason of race or color, excepting Indians not taxed; and upon the further condition that this fundamental condition shall be submitted to the voters of the Territory of Nebraska at an election to be held on the first Tuesday of next. And at such election said voters shall declare their assent to or dissent from the condition aforesaid in such form as shall be prescribed by the governor of said Territory. And all votes given at such election shall be returned to such governor within days from the day of the election, who shall forthwith canvass the same. And if a majority of such votes shall be for this condition the governor shall certify that fact to the President of the United States, who shall by proclamation announce the fact; whereupon, without further proceedings on the part of Congress, this act shall take effect;

Resolved, That it pass, and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

Ordered, That the Secretary request the concurrence of the House of Representatives therein.

On motion by Mr. Lane,

The Senate proceeded to consider the motion submitted by Mr. Morrill on the 14th instant, that the Senate reconsider its vote on the passage of the bill (S. 69) to provide for the payment of pensions ; and,

After debate,

Ordered, That the further consideration of the motion be postponed to to-morrow.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Lloyd, chief clerk :

Mr. President : The House of Representatives has passed the following bills of the Senate, with amendments, in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate:

S. 253. An act to incorporate "The First Congregational Society of Washington."

S. 380. An act to incorporate the Washington County Horse Railroad Company in the District of Columbia.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the bill (S. 453) to regulate the tenure of offices; and the question being on the amendment proposed by Mr. Sumner, on the 15th instant, to the amendment made in Committee of the Whole; and

Pending debate, while Mr Sumner was addressing the Chair on the subject-matter of the said amendment,

Mr. McDougall rose to a question of privilege, and stated that the senator from Massachusetts had used language in reference to the President of the United States which he deemed not proper to be used in debate; and thereupon raised a question whether the language used by the senator from Massachusetts was in order; and being required by Mr. Sumner to reduce the exceptionable words to writing,

Mr. McDougall thereupon sent to the Chair, as the exceptionable words, the following:

"We have never before had a President of the United States who was an enemy of his country."

The President (Mr. Anthony in the chair) stated that, in the opinion of the Chair, the language used by the senator from Massachusetts did not transcend the latitude of debate heretofore allowed in the Senate, and was not, therefore, out of order.

From this decision Mr. McDougall appealed to the Senate; and

On the question, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the Senate?

After debate,

Mr. McDougall asked and obtained leave of the Senate to withdraw his appeal from the decision of the Chair.

Mr. Sumner, resuming his remarks, read the language used by him, as written down from the notes of the reporter, and to which exception had been taken, as follows:

"There, sir, is the duty of the hour. There was no such duty on our fathers; there was no such duty on our recent predecessors, because there was no President of the United States who had become the enemy of his country;"

And was proceeding in his remarks,

When

Mr. Doolittle renewed the question of order upon the words spoken by Mr. Sumner, and

The President decided that the words spoken by Mr. Sumner were not out of order.

From this decision Mr. Doolittle appealed to the Senate; and

On the question, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the Senate?

After debate,

On motion by Mr. Lane that the appeal do lie on the table,

Mr. Doolittle raised a question of order, to wit: Is the motion of Mr. Lane, being a motion to lay an appeal from the decision of the Chair on the table, in order?

The President decided that the motion was in order; and

On the question to agree to the motion that the appeal do lie on the table,

It was determined in the affirmative, { Yeas 29
Nays 10

On motion by Mr. Conness,

The yeas and nays being desired by one-fifth of the senators present,

Those who voted in the affirmative are,

Messrs. Brown, Cattell, Chandler, Conness, Cragin, Edmunds, Fessenden, Fogg, Fowler, Frelinghuysen, Grimes, Harris, Henderson, Howard, Howe, Kirkwood, Lane, Morgan, Morrill, Ramsey, Sherman, Sprague, Stewart, Van Winkle, Wade, Willey, Williams, Wilson, Yates.

Those who voted in the negative are,

Messrs. Buckalew, Cowan, Dixon, Doolittle, Hendricks, Johnson, McDougall, Norton, Patterson, Saulsbury.

So the appeal was ordered to lie on the table.

On motion by Mr. Fessenden,

The Senate adjourned.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 18, 1867.

On motion by Mr. Howard,

Ordered, That the petition of John Watters, lieutenant United States navy, on the files of the Senate, be referred to the Committee on Claims.

On motion by Mr. Howe,

Ordered, That Knauth, Nachod and Kühne, importers of dry goods, in the city of New York, have leave to withdraw their petitions and papers.

Mr. Sherman presented seven petitions of citizens of Ohio, praying the passage of the bill (H. R. 718) to provide increased revenue from imports, and for other purposes, now pending in the Senate.

Ordered, That they lie on the table.

Mr. Sherman presented a petition of cigar manufacturers of Cincinnati, Ohio, praying that a duty of five dollars per thousand may be imposed on all domestic cigars in lieu of the present tax, and that the present tariff on imported cigars may remain unchanged; that the cost of internal revenue stamps to cigar manufacturers may be limited to five dollars per thousand, and that the penalty for violations of the internal revenue laws may be increased; which was referred to the Committee on Finance.

Mr. Wilson, from the Committee on Military Affairs and the Militia, to whom was referred the bill (H. R. 788) to establish and protect national cemeteries, reported it without amendment.

The Senate proceeded to consider the said bill as in Committee of the Whole; and,

On motion by Mr. Wilson,

Ordered, That the further consideration of the said bill be postponed to tomorrow.

Mr. Howe, from the Committee on Claims, to whom was referred the joint resolution (H. R. 173) for the relief of Ober, Nanson & Company, merchants, of New York, reported it without amendment.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 29, 1867.

The following message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Moore, his secretary :

To the Senate of the United States :

I transmit to the Senate, in answer to their resolution of the 21st instant, a report from the Secretary of State, with accompanying papers.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON, January 23, 1867.

The message was read.

Ordered, That it lie on the table and be printed.

The message of the President of the United States, returning, with his objections, the bill (S. 462) to admit the State of Colorado into the Union, yesterday transmitted to the Senate, was read as follows :

To the Senate of the United States :

I return to the Senate, in which house it originated, a bill entitled "An act to admit the State of Colorado into the Union," to which I cannot, consistently with my sense of duty, give my approval. With the exception of an additional section, containing new provisions, it is substantially the same as the bill of a similar title passed by Congress during the last session, submitted to the President for his approval, returned with the objections contained in a message bearing date the 15th of May last, and yet awaiting the reconsideration of the Senate.

A second bill, having in view the same purpose, has now passed both houses of Congress, and been presented for my signature. Having again carefully considered the subject, I have been unable to perceive any reason for changing the opinions which have already been communicated to Congress. I find, on the contrary, that there are many objections to the proposed legislation, of which I was not at that time aware; and that while several of those which I then assigned have, in the interval, gained in strength, yet others have been created by the altered character of the measures now submitted.

The constitution under which this State government is proposed to be formed very properly contains a provision that all laws in force at the time of its adoption, and the admission of the State into the Union, shall continue as if the constitution had not been adopted. Among those laws is one absolutely prohibiting negroes and mulattoes from voting. At the recent session of the Territorial legislature a bill for the repeal of this law, introduced into the council, was almost unanimously rejected; and at the very time when Congress was engaged in enacting the bill now under consideration, the legislature passed an act excluding negroes and mulattoes from the right to sit as jurors. This bill was vetoed by the governor of the Territory, who held that by the laws of the United States negroes and mulattoes are citizens, and subject to the duties, as well as entitled to the rights, of citizenship. The bill, however, was passed, the objections of the governor to the contrary notwithstanding, and is now a law of the Territory. Yet in the bill now before me, by which it is proposed to admit the Territory as a State, it is provided that "there shall be no denial of the elective franchise or any other rights, to any person, by reason of race or color, excepting Indians not taxed."

The incongruity thus exhibited between the legislation of Congress and that of the Territory, taken in connection with the protest against the admission of the State hereinafter referred to, would seem clearly to indicate the impolicy and injustice of the proposed enactment.

It might indeed be a subject of grave inquiry, and doubtless will result in such inquiry if this bill becomes a law, whether it does not attempt to exercise a power not conferred upon Congress by the federal Constitution. That instrument simply declares that Congress may admit new States into the Union. It nowhere says that Congress may make new States for the purpose of admitting them into the Union, or for any other purpose; and yet this bill is as clear an attempt to make the institutions as any in which the people themselves could engage.

In view of this action of Congress, the house of representatives of the Territory have earnestly protested against being forced into the Union without first having the question submitted to the people. Nothing could be more reasonable than the position which they thus assume; and it certainly cannot be the purpose of Congress to force upon a community, against their will, a government which they do not believe themselves capable of sustaining.

The following is a copy of the protest alluded to, as officially transmitted to me:

"Whereas it is announced in the public prints that it is the intention of Congress to admit Colorado as a State into the Union: Therefore,

"Resolved by the house of representatives of the Territory, That, representing as we do the last and only legal expression of public opinion on this question, we earnestly protest against the passage of a law admitting the State, without first having the question submitted to a vote of the people, for the reasons, first, that we have a right to a voice in the selection of the character of our government; second, that we have not a sufficient population to support the expenses of a State government. For these reasons we trust that Congress will not force upon us a government against our will."

Upon information which I considered reliable, I assumed in my message of the 15th of May last that the population of Colorado was not more than thirty thousand, and expressed the opinion that this number was entirely too small either to assume the responsibilities or to enjoy the privileges of a State.

It appears that previous to that time the legislature, with a view to ascertain the exact condition of the Territory, had passed a law authorizing a census of the population to be taken. The law made it the duty of the assessors in the several counties to take the census in connection with the annual assessments, and, in order to secure a correct enumeration of the population, allowed them a liberal compensation for the service by paying them for every name returned, and added to their previous oath of office an oath to perform this duty with fidelity.

From the accompanying official report it appears that returns have been received from fifteen of the eighteen counties into which the State is divided, and that their population amounts in the aggregate to twenty-four thousand nine hundred and nine. The three remaining counties are estimated to contain three thousand—making a total population of twenty-seven thousand nine hundred and nine.

This census was taken in the summer season, when it is claimed that the population is much larger than at any other period, as in the autumn miners in large numbers leave their work and return to the east, with the results of their summer enterprise.

The population, it will be observed, is but slightly in excess of one-fifth of the number required as the basis of representation for a single congressional district in any of the States—the number being 127,000.

I am unable to perceive any good reason for such great disparity in the right of representation, giving, as it would, to the people of Colorado, not only this vast advantage in the House of Representatives, but an equality in the Senate, where the other States are represented by millions. With perhaps a single exception, no such inequality as this has ever before been attempted. I know that it is claimed that the population of the different States at the time of their admission has varied at different periods, but it has not varied much more than the population of each decade, and the corresponding basis of representation for the different periods.

The obvious intent of the Constitution was, that no State should be admitted with a less population than the ratio for a representative at the time of application. The limitation in the second section of the first article of the Constitution, declaring that "each State shall have at least one representative," was manifestly designed to protect the States which originally composed the Union from being deprived, in the event of a waning population, of a voice in the popular branch of Congress, and was never intended as a warrant to force a new State into the Union with a representative population far below that which might at the time be required of sister members of the confederacy. This bill, in view of the prohibition of the same section, which declares that "the number of representatives shall not exceed one for every thirty thousand," is at least a violation of the spirit, if not the letter of the Constitution.

It is respectfully submitted that however Congress, under the pressure of circumstances, may have admitted two or three States with less than a representative population at the time, there has been no instance in which an application for admission has ever been entertained when the population, as officially ascertained, was below thirty thousand.

Were there any doubt of this being the true construction of the Constitution it would be dispelled by the early and long-continued practice of the federal government. For nearly sixty years after the adoption of the Constitution no State was admitted with a population believed at the time to be less than the current ratio for a representative, and the first instance in which there appears to have been a departure from the principle was in 1845, in the case of Florida. Obviously the result of sectional strife, we would do well to regard it as a warning of evil rather than as an example for imitation, and I think candid men of all parties will agree that the inspiring cause of the violation of this wholesome principle of restraint is to be found in a vain attempt to balance these antagonisms, which refused to be reconciled except through the bloody arbitrament of arms. The plain facts of our history will attest that the great and leading States admitted since 1845, viz., Iowa, Wisconsin, California, Minnesota, and Kansas, including Texas, which was admitted that year, have all come with an ample population for one representative, and some of them with nearly or quite enough for two.

To demonstrate the correctness of my views on this question I subjoin a table containing a list of the States admitted since the adoption of the federal Constitution, with the date of admission, the ratio of representation, and the representative population when admitted, deduced from the United States census tables, the calculation being made for the period of the decade corresponding with the date of admission.

Colorado, which it is now proposed to admit as a State, contains, as has already been stated, a population less than twenty-eight thousand, while the present ratio of representation is one hundred and twenty-seven thousand.

There can be no reason, that I can perceive, for the admission of Colorado that would not apply with equal force to nearly every other Territory now organized; and I submit whether, if this bill become a law, it will be possible to resist the logical conclusion that such Territories as Dakota, Montana, and Idaho, must be received as States whenever they present themselves, without regard to the number of inhabitants they may respectively contain. Eight or ten new senators and four or five new members of the House of Representatives would thus be admitted to represent a population scarcely exceeding that which, in any other portion of the nation, is entitled to but a single member of the House of Representatives, while the average for two senators in the Union, as now constituted, is at least one million of people. It would surely be unjust to all other sections of the Union to enter upon a policy with regard to the admission of new States which might result in conferring such a disproportionate share of influence in the national legislature upon communities which, in pursuance of the wise policy of our fathers, should for some years to come be retained under the fostering care and protection of the national government. If it is deemed just and expedient now to depart from the settled policy of the nation during all its history, and to admit all the Territories to the rights and privileges of States, irrespective of their population or fitness for such government, it is submitted whether it would not be well to devise such measures as will bring the subject before the country for consideration and decision. This would seem to be evidently wise, because, as has already been stated, if it is right to admit Colorado now, there is no reason for the exclusion of the other Territories.

It is no answer to these suggestions that an enabling act was passed authorizing the people of Colorado to take action on this subject. It is well known that that act was passed in consequence of representations that the population reached, according to some statements, as high as eighty thousand, and to none less than fifty thousand, and was growing with a rapidity which by the time the admission could be consummated would secure a population of over a hundred thousand. These representations prove to have been wholly fallacious, and, in addition, the people of the Territory, by a deliberate vote, decided that they would not assume the responsibilities of a State government. By that decision they utterly exhausted all power that was conferred by the enabling act, and, there has been no step taken since in relation to the admission that has had the slightest sanction or warrant of law.

The proceeding upon which the present application is based was in the utter absence of all law in relation to it, and there is no evidence that the votes on the question of the formation of a State government bear any relation whatever to the sentiment of the Territory. The protest of the house of representatives previously quoted is conclusive evidence to the contrary.

But if none of these reasons existed against this proposed enactment, the bill itself, besides being inconsistent in its provisions in conferring power upon a person unknown to the laws, and who may never have a legal existence, is so framed as to render its execution almost impossible. It is, indeed, a question whether it is not in itself a nullity. To say the least, it is of exceedingly doubtful propriety to confer the power proposed in this bill upon the "governor elect;" for, as by its own terms the constitution is not to take effect until after the admission of the State, he in the mean time has no more authority than any other private citizen. But, even supposing him to be clothed with sufficient authority to convene the legislature, what constitutes the "State legislature," to which is to be referred the submission of the conditions imposed by Congress? Is it a new body to be elected and convened by proclamation of the "governor elect," or is it that body which met more than a year ago under the provisions of the State constitution? By reference to the second section of the schedule, and to the eighteenth section of the fourth article of the State constitution, it will be seen that the term of the members of the house of representatives, and that of one-half of the members of the senate, expired on the first Monday of the present month. It is clear that, if there were no intrinsic objections to the bill itself in relation to purposes to be accomplished, this objection would be fatal; as it is apparent that the provisions of the third section of the bill to admit Colorado have reference to a period and a state of facts entirely different from the present, and affairs as they now exist, and if carried into effect must necessarily lead to confusion.

Even if it were settled that the old and not a new body were to act, it would be found impracticable to execute the law, because a considerable number of the members, as I am informed, have ceased to be residents of the Territory, and in the sixty days within which the legislature is to be convened after the passage of the act, there would not be sufficient time to fill the vacancies by new elections, were there any authority under which they could be held.

It may not be improper to add that if these proceedings were all regular, and the result to be obtained were desirable, simple justice to the people of the Territory would require a longer period than sixty days within which to obtain action on the conditions proposed by the third section of the bill. There are, as is well known, large portions of the Territory with which there is and can be no general communication, there being several counties which, from November to May, can only be reached by persons travelling on foot, while with other regions of the Territory, occupied by a large portion of the population, there is very little more freedom of access. Thus, if this bill should become a law, it would be impracticable to obtain any expression of public sentiment in reference to its provisions, with a view to enlighten the legislature, if the old body were called together; and, of course, equally impracticable to procure the election of a new body. This defect might have been remedied by an extension of the time and a submission of the question to the people, with a fair opportunity to enable them to express their sentiments.

The admission of a new State has generally been regarded as an epoch in our history, marking the onward progress of the nation; but, after the most careful and anxious inquiry on the subject, I cannot perceive that the proposed proceeding is in conformity with the policy which, from the origin of the government, has uniformly prevailed in the admission of new States. I therefore return the bill to the Senate without my signature.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

The message having been read,

The Senate proceeded, as the Constitution provides, to reconsider the bill (S. 462) to admit the State of Colorado into the Union, returned by the President of the United States to the Senate with his objections; which bill is in the following words:

AN ACT to admit the State of Colorado into the Union.

Whereas, on the twenty-first day of March, anno Domini eighteen hundred and sixty-four, Congress passed an act to enable the people of Colorado to form a constitution and State government, and offered to admit said State, when so formed, into the Union upon compliance with certain conditions therein specified; and whereas it appears by message of the President of the United States, dated January , eighteen hundred and sixty-six, that the said people have adopted a constitution, which upon due examination is found to conform to the provisions and comply with the conditions of said act, and to be republican in its form of government, and that they now ask for admission into the Union:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the constitution and State government which the people of Colorado have formed for themselves be, and the same is hereby, accepted, ratified, and confirmed; and that the said State of Colorado shall be, and hereby is declared to be, one of the United States of America, and is hereby admitted into the Union upon an equal footing with the original States in all respects whatsoever.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the said State of Colorado shall be, and is hereby declared to be, entitled to all the rights, privileges, grants, and immunities, and to be subject to all the conditions and restrictions, of an act entitled "An act to enable the people of Colorado to form a constitution and State government, and for the admission of such State into the Union on an equal footing with the original States," approved March twenty-first, eighteen hundred and sixty-four.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That this act shall not take effect except upon the fundamental condition that within the State of Colorado there shall be no denial of the elective franchise, or any other rights, to any person by reason of race or color, excepting Indians not taxed; and upon the further fundamental condition that the legislature elected under said State constitution, by a solemn public act, shall declare the assent of said State to the said fundamental condition, and shall transmit to the President of the United States an authentic copy of said act; upon the receipt whereof the President, by proclamation, shall forthwith announce the fact, whereupon said fundamental condition shall be held as a part of the organic law of the State; and thereupon, and without any further proceeding on the part of Congress, the admission of said State into the Union shall be considered as complete. Said State legislature shall be convened by the governor elect of said State within sixty days after the passage of this act, to act upon the condition submitted herein.

SCHUYLER COLFAX,
Speaker of the House of Representatives.
LA FAYETTE S. FOSTER,
President of the Senate pro tempore.

I certify that this act did originate in the Senate.

J. W. FORNEY, Secretary.

And,

On the question, Shall the bill pass, the objections of the President to the contrary notwithstanding?

On motion by Mr. Johnson that the further consideration of the bill be postponed to to-morrow,

After debate,

The motion was agreed to; and it was Ordered, That the further consideration of the bill be postponed to to-morrow.

On motion by Mr. Wade,

Ordered, That the message with accompanying documents be printed.

Mr. Stewart, from the Committee on Public Lands, to whom was recommitted the bill (S. 461) to aid in the construction of the San Francisco Central Pacific railroad, reported it with an amendment.

A message from the President of the United States, by Mr. Moore, his secretary :

Mr. President : I am directed by the President to return to the Senate, in which it originated, the bill (S. 456) for the admission of the State of Nebraska into the Union, with his objections thereto in writing.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Lloyd, chief clerk :

Mr. President : The Speaker of the House of Representatives having signed nine enrolled bills, (S. 16, S. 253, S. 380, S. 410, S. 446, S. 454, S. 455, S. 476, and S. 511,) I am directed to bring them to the Senate for the signature of its President.

Mr. Howe reported from the committee that they this day presented to the President of the United States the following enrolled bill and joint resolutions :

H. R. 486. An act for the relief of Catharine Welsh.

S. 112. Joint resolution for the relief of Abby Green.

S. 156. Joint resolution to provide for the removal of the wreck of the steamship Scotland.

H. R. 160. Joint resolution for the relief of William D. Nelson.

H. R. 244. Joint resolution to amend existing laws relating to internal revenue.

The President pro tempore signed the nine enrolled bills (S. 16, S. 253, S. 380, S. 410, S. 446, S. 454, S. 455, S. 476, and S. 511) last reported to have been examined, and they were delivered to the committee to be presented to the President of the United States.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. Lloyd, chief clerk :

Mr. President : The House of Representatives has agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the bill of the Senate (S. 69) to provide for the payment of pensions.

The Senate resumed the consideration of the bill (H. R. 718) to provide increased revenue from imports, and for other purposes; and the question being on the amendment proposed yesterday by Mr. Cattell to the amendment made in Committee of the Whole, to wit, on page 39, line 51, strike out the word "thirty," and in lieu thereof insert forty, so that the clause will read,

To the Senate of the United States :

I transmit herewith a report from the Secretary of State, with accompanying papers, in answer to the Senate's resolution of the 7th instant.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON, January 28, 1867.

The message was read.

Ordered, That it lie on the table and be printed.

The message of the President of the United States, returning with his objections the bill (S. 456) for the admission of the State of Nebraska into the Union, yesterday transmitted to the Senate, was read, as follows :

To the Senate of the United States :

I return, for reconsideration, a bill entitled "An act for the admission of the State of Nebraska into the Union," which originated in the Senate, and has received the assent of both Houses of Congress. A bill having in view the same object was presented for my approval a few hours prior to the adjournment of the last session; but, submitted at a time when there was no opportunity for a proper consideration of the subject, I withheld my signature, and the measure failed to become a law.

It appears, by the preamble of this bill, that the people of Nebraska, availing themselves of the authority conferred upon them by the act passed on the 19th day of April, 1864, "have adopted a constitution which, upon due examination, is found to conform to the provisions and comply with the conditions of said act, and to be republican in its form of government, and that they now ask for admission into the Union." This proposed law would, therefore, seem to be based upon the declaration contained in the enabling act, that, upon compliance with its terms, the people of Nebraska should be admitted into the Union upon an equal footing with the original States. Reference to the bill, however, shows that while, by the first section, Congress distinctly accepts, ratifies, and confirms the constitution and State government which the people of the Territory have formed for themselves, declares Nebraska to be one of the United States of America, and admits her into the Union upon an equal footing with the original States in all respects whatsoever, the third section provides that this measure "shall not take effect except upon the fundamental condition that within the State of Nebraska there shall be no denial of the elective franchise, or of any other right, to any person, by reason of race or color, excepting Indians not taxed; and upon the further fundamental condition that the legislature of said State, by a solemn public act, shall declare the assent of said State to the said fundamental condition, and shall transmit to the President of the United States an authentic copy of said act, upon receipt whereof the President, by proclamation, shall forthwith announce the fact, whereupon said fundamental condition shall be held as a part of the organic law of the State; and thereupon, and without any further proceeding on the part of Congress, the admission of said State into the Union shall be considered as complete." This condition is not mentioned in the original enabling act; was not contemplated at the time of its passage; was not sought by the people themselves; has not heretofore been applied to the inhabitants of any State asking admission, and is in direct conflict with the constitution adopted by the people, and declared in the preamble "to be republican in its form of government," for in that instrument the exercise of the elective franchise, and the right to hold office, are expressly limited to white citizens of the United States. Congress thus undertakes to authorize and compel the legislature to change a constitution which it is declared in the preamble has received the sanction of the people, and which by this bill is "accepted, ratified, and confirmed" by the Congress of the nation.

The first and third sections of the bill exhibit yet further incongruity. By the one Nebraska is "admitted into the Union upon an equal footing with the original States, in all respects whatsoever," while by the other Congress demands, as a condition precedent to her admission, requirements which in our history have never been asked of any people when presenting a constitution and State government for the acceptance of the law-making power. It is expressly declared by the third section that the bill "shall not take effect except upon the fundamental condition that within the State of Nebraska there shall be no denial of the elective franchise, or of any other right, to any person by reason of race or color, except Indians not taxed." Neither more nor less than the assertion of the right of Congress to regulate the elective franchise of any State hereafter to be admitted, this condition is in clear violation of the federal Constitution, under the provisions of which, from the very foundation of the government, each State has been left free to determine for itself the qualifications necessary for the exercise of suffrage within its limits. Without precedent in our legislation, it is in marked contrast with those limitations which, imposed upon States that, from time to time, have become members of the Union, had for their object the single purpose of preventing any infringement of the Constitution of the country.

If Congress is satisfied that Nebraska, at the present time, possesses sufficient population to entitle her to full representation in the councils of the nation, and that her people desire an exchange of a territorial for a State government, good faith would seem to demand that she should be admitted without further requirements than those expressed in the enabling act, with all of which, it is asserted in the preamble, her inhabitants have complied. Congress may, under the Constitution, admit new States or reject them, but the people of a State can alone make or change their organic law, and prescribe the qualifications requisite for electors. Congress, however, in passing the bill in the shape in which it has been submitted for my approval, does not merely reject the application of the people of Nebraska for present admission as a State into the Union, on the ground that the constitution which they have submitted restricts the exercise of the elective franchise to the white population, but imposes conditions which, if accepted by the legislature, may, without the consent of the people, so change the organic law as to make electors of all persons within the State, without distinction of race or color. In view of this fact, I suggest for the consideration of Congress, whether it would not be just, expedient, and in accordance with the principles of our government, to allow the people, by popular vote, or through a convention chosen by themselves for that purpose, to declare whether or not they will accept the terms upon which it is now proposed to admit them into the Union. This course would not occasion much greater delay than that which the bill contemplates when it requires that the legislature shall be convened within thirty days after this measure shall have become a law, for the purpose of considering and deciding the conditions which it imposes, and gains additional force when we consider that the proceedings attending the formation of the State constitution were not in conformity with the provisions of the enabling act; that in an aggregate vote of 7,776, the majority in favor of the constitution did not exceed one hundred; and that it is alleged that, in consequence of frauds, even this result cannot be received as a fair expression of the wishes of the people. As upon them must fall the burdens of a State organization, it is but just that they should be permitted to determine for themselves a question which so materially affects their interests. Possessing a soil and a climate admirably adapted to those industrial pursuits which bring prosperity and greatness to a people, with the advantage of a central position on the great highway that will soon connect the Atlantic and Pacific States, Nebraska is rapidly gaining in numbers and wealth; and may, within a very brief period, claim admission on grounds which will challenge and secure universal assent. She can therefore wisely and patiently afford to wait. Her population is said to be steadily and even rapidly increasing, being now generally conceded as high as forty thousand, and estimated by some whose judgment is entitled to respect at a still greater number. At her present rate of growth she will, in a very short time, have the requisite population for a representative in Congress, and, what is far more important to her own citizens, will have realized such an advance in material wealth as will enable the expenses of a State government to be borne without oppression to the tax-payer. Of new communities it may be said with special force—and it is true of old ones—that the inducement to emigrants, other things being equal, is in almost the precise ratio of the rate of taxation. The great States of the northwest owe their marvellous prosperity largely to the fact that they were continued as Territories until they had grown to be wealthy and populous communities.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON, January 29, 1867.

The message having been read,

The Senate proceeded, as the Constitution provides, to reconsider the bill (S. 456) for the admission of the State of Nebraska into the Union, returned by the President of the United States to the Senate with his objections, which bill is in the following words:

THIRTY-NINTH CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA,
AT THE SECOND SESSION, BEGUN AND HELD AT THE CITY OF WASHINGTON ON MONDAY, THE THIRD DAY OF DECEMBER, ONE THOUSAND EIGHT HUNDRED AND SIXTY-SIX.

AN ACT for the admission of the State of Nebraska into the Union.

Whereas, on the twenty-first day of March, anno Domini eighteen hundred and sixty-four, Congress passed an act to enable the people of Nebraska to form a constitution and State government, and offered to admit said State, when so formed, into the Union upon compliance with certain conditions therein specified; and whereas it appears that the said people have adopted a constitution which, upon due examination, is found to conform to the provisions and comply with the conditions of said act, and to be republican in its form of government, and that they now ask for admission into the Union: Therefore—

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the constitution and State government which the people of Nebraska have formed for themselves be, and the same is hereby, accepted, ratified, and confirmed, and that the said State of Nebraska shall be, and is hereby declared to be, one of the United States of America, and is hereby admitted into the Union upon an equal footing with the original States in all respects whatsoever.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the said State of Nebraska shall be, and is hereby declared to be, entitled to all the rights, privileges, grants, and immunities, and to be subject to all the conditions and restrictions of an act entitled "An act to enable the people of Nebraska to form a constitution and State government, and for the admission of such State into the Union on an equal footing with the original States."

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That this act shall not take effect except upon the fundamental condition that within the State of Nebraska there shall be no denial of the elective franchise, or of any other right, to any person by reason of race or color, (except Indians not taxed;) and upon the further fundamental condition that the legislature of said State, by a solemn public act, shall declare the assent of said State to the said fundamental condition, and shall transmit to the President of the United States an authentic copy of said act. Upon receipt whereof the President, by proclamation, shall forthwith announce the fact, whereupon said fundamental condition shall be held as a part of the organic law of the State; and thereupon, and without any further proceeding on the part of Congress, the admission of said State into the Union shall be considered as complete. Said State legislature shall be convened by the territorial governor within thirty days after the passage of this act, to act upon the condition submitted herein.

SCHUYLER COLFAX,

Speaker of the House of Representatives.

LA FAYETTE S. FOSTER,

President of the Senate pro tempore.

I certify that this act did originate in the Senate.

J. W. FORNEY, Secretary.

And,

The Speaker of the House of Representatives having signed an enrolled bill and joint resolution, (S. 433 and S. Res. 94,) I am directed to bring them to the Senate for the signature of its President.

The bill and joint resolution last received from the House of Representatives for concurrence were severally read the first and second times by unanimous consent.

Ordered, That the bill H. R. 1099 be referred to the Committee on Printing, and that joint resolution H. R. 259 be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs and the Militia.

The President pro tempore signed the enrolled bill (S. 433) and the enrolled joint resolution (S. 94) last reported to have been examined, and they were delivered to the committee to be presented to the President of the United States.

The Senate resumed, as in Committee of the Whole, the consideration of the bill (H. R. 598) to establish a uniform system of bankruptcy throughout the United States ; and the amendments reported by the committee having been in part agreed to and in part disagreed to, and the bill having been further amended on the motion of Mr. Poland, and

A further amendment to the bill being proposed by Mr. Williams,

After debate,

On motion by Mr. Henderson to recommit the bill to the Committee on the Judiciary with instructions to report a bill on the subject of bankruptcy, with provisions as follows :

1. That no person shall be authorized to become a voluntary bankrupt except on the conditions following :

First. He shall relinquish all his property to the assignee in bankruptcy, for the benefit of his creditors, regardless of the State exemptions, except a specified amount, not to exceed in value five hundred dollars.

Second. His indebtedness provable under the act must amount to at least fifteen hundred dollars.

Third. The assets shall pay at least thirty per cent. of any debt existing at the time of the passage of the act, or otherwise the same shall not be discharged, unless a majority of the creditors consent.

Fourth. No debt contracted or accruing after the passage of the act shall be discharged by certificate, in case of voluntary bankruptcy, unless the assets shall have paid fifty per cent. of the amount proved.

Fifth. All future acquisitions of the bankrupt obtained by descent, devise, bequest, or in the course of distribution, shall be subject to the payment of his former debts.

Sixth. That no debt shall be discharged unless it be specified in the original or supplementary schedules of the debtor, or by the creditor.

2. Involuntary bankruptcies shall be subject to the following restrictions:

First. The petitioning creditor seeking to obtain a judgment of bankruptcy must represent and establish against the alleged bankrupt an indebtedness of not less than fifteen hundred dollars.

Second. A specified amount of property, not to exceed one thousand dollars, shall be exempt from the proceedings, in favor of the head of a family, and not to exceed five hundred dollars in other cases.

Third. Subsequent acquisitions, as in the case of voluntary bankruptcy, obtained by descent, devise, bequest, or in course of distribution, shall be subject to the payment of discharged debts;

On the question to agree thereto,

It was determined in the negative.

The question recurring on the amendment of Mr. Williams, to wit: At the end of section 50 insert, And provided further, That no proceedings in voluntary bankruptcy under this act shall dissolve or affect the obligation of any existing contract or indebtedness,

It was determined in the negative,	{ Yeas	10

The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the bill (H. R. 918) making appropriations for the service of the Post Office Department during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1868; and having been amended on the motion of Mr. Fessenden, the bill was reported to the Senate and the amendment was concurred in.

Ordered, That the amendment be engrossed and the bill read a third time.

The said bill, as amended, was read the third time.

Resolved, That it pass, and that the title be amended by inserting at the end thereof the words and for other purposes.

Ordered, That the Secretary request the concurrence of the House of Representatives in the amendment.

On motion by Mr. Fessenden,

The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the joint resolution (S. 163) to provide, in certain cases, for the removal of alcohol from bonded warehouse free from internal tax; and no amendment being made, the resolution was reported to the Senate.

Ordered, That it be engrossed and read a third time.

The said resolution was read the third time.

Resolved, That it pass, and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

Ordered, That the Secretary request the concurrence of the House of Representatives therein.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. McPherson, its Clerk:

Mr. President: I am directed by the House of Representatives to return to the Senate the bill (S. 527) to amend the postal laws, and for other purposes, in accordance with the request of the Senate.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives having signed an enrolled bill, (H. R. 183,) I am directed to bring it to the Senate for the signature of its President.

Mr. Howe reported from the committee that they had examined and found duly enrolled the bill (H. R. 183) concerning the fire department of Washington city.

On motion by Mr. Morgan, that the Senate reconsider its vote on the passage of the bill (S. 527) to amend the postal laws, and for other purposes,

It was determined in the affirmative; and

The vote ordering the bill to be engrossed and read a third time having been also reconsidered,

After debate,

On motion by Mr. Sherman that the Senate reconsider its vote concurring in the following amendment made in Committee of the Whole to the bill, to wit: insert as an additional section the following:

"SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That the Postmaster General be, and is hereby, authorized to adjust and settle the accounts of postmasters accruing prior to the establishment of the system of salaries for deputy postmasters upon the basis of equity and justice: Provided, That such settlements shall not include any case of official delinquency by any deputy postmaster;"

It was determined in the negative, { Yeas 16

On motion by Mr. Conness,

The yeas and nays being desired by one-fifth of the senators present,

Those who voted in the affirmative are,

Messrs. Buckalew, Davis, Fessenden, Fogg, Foster, Harris, McDougall, Morgan, Morrill, Pomeroy, Ross, Sherman, Sprague, Sumner, Trumbull, Wilson.

Those who voted in the negative are,

Messrs. Anthony, Brown, Chandler, Conness, Cragin, Creswell, Dixon, Frelinghuysen, Hendricks, Howard, Johnson, Kirkwood, Lane, Norton, Patterson, Ramsey, Riddle, Stewart, Van Winkle, Willey, Williams, Yates.

So the motion to reconsider was not agreed to.

On motion by Mr. Sherman to amend the bill in section 6, lines 5 and 6, by striking out the words "with the chief clerks of the three bureaus and the topographer of the Post Office Department," and in line 8, by inserting after the word "clerk" the words of the fourth class, and in lines 8 and 9 by striking out the words "at an annual salary of two thousand dollars," so that the section will read,

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the Postmaster General be, and he is hereby, authorized to appoint in the bureau of the Second Assistant Postmaster General a superintendent of domestic mails and a superintendent of inspection, who shall each receive an annual salary of two thousand five hundred dollars; also, to appoint an additional clerk of the fourth class, to be in charge of mail bags, locks, and keys, and an assistant topographer, at a salary of one thousand eight hundred dollars per annum;

It was determined in the affirmative; and no further amendment being proposed,

Ordered, That the bill be engrossed and read a third time.

The said bill was read the third time; and

On the question, Shall the bill pass?

It was determined in the affirmative, { Yeas 31

Those who voted in the negative are,

Messrs. Fessenden, Fogg, Morgan, Sherman, Sprague, Sumner.

So it was

Resolved, That the bill pass, and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

Ordered, That the Secretary return the bill to the House of Representatives and request its concurrence therein.

The President pro tempore signed the enrolled bill (H. R. 183) last reported to have been examined, and it was delivered to the committee to be presented to the President of the United States.

Mr. Dixon asked, and by unanimous consent obtained, leave to bring in a joint resolution (S. 169) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States; which was read the first and second times by unanimous consent.

Ordered, That it lie on the table.

On motion by Mr. Wade,

The Senate resumed, as in Committee of the Whole, the consideration of the joint resolution (S. 33) proposing an amendment to the Constitution of the United States; and the question being on the amendment reported by the Committee on the Judiciary, and an amendment to the reported amendment being proposed by Mr. Poland,

After debate,

Ordered, That the further consideration of the said resolution be postponed to to-morrow.

On motion by Mr. Williams,

Ordered, That the Senate take a recess until seven o'clock p. m.

SEVEN O'CLOCK P. M.

On motion by Mr. Williams,

The Senate resumed, as in Committee of the Whole, the consideration of the joint resolution (H. R. 224) giving additional compensation to certain employés in the civil service at Washington; and the question being on the amendment proposed by Mr. Ramsey to the amendment of Mr. Williams, to wit: in line 13 of the amendment, after the words "navy yard," insert the word arsenal;

Those who voted in the negative are,

Messrs. Buckalew, Fessenden, Grimes, Henderson, Hendricks, Morgan, Pomeroy, Willey.

So the amendment to the amendment was agreed to; and

The reported amendment having been further amended on the motion of Mr. Williams, on the motion of Mr. Fessenden, and on the motion of Mr. Trumbull,

On motion by Mr. Fessenden to further amend the amendment by striking out the proviso, which is in the following words, to wit: "Provided, further, That all extra compensation allowed and paid to any of said persons during the current fiscal year by the head of any department shall be taken and considered as a part of said twenty per centum, so that all of said persons shall receive twenty per centum on their respective salaries as aforesaid and no more; but no person shall be required to refund any sum that he may have received as aforesaid in excess of said twenty per centum on his salary;"

Those who voted in the negative are,

Messrs. Buckalew, Chandler, Fogg, Harris, Henderson, Howard, Pomeroy, Sherman, Trumbull, Williams.

So the amendment to the amendment was agreed to; and

The amendment having been further amended on the motion of Mr. Henderson,

On motion by Mr. Trumbull to further amend the amendment in line 32 by inserting, after the words "per annum," the following: nor to any person so as to increase his compensation for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1867, beyond the sum of four thousand five hundred dollars,

So the amendment to the amendment was not agreed to; and

No further amendment being proposed, the reported amendment as amended was agreed to, and the joint resolution was reported to the Senate and the amendment was concurred in.

Ordered, That the amendment be engrossed and the resolution read a third time.

The said resolution as amended was read the third time.

Resolved, That it pass.

Ordered, That the Secretary request the concurrence of the House of Representatives in the amendment.

On motion by Mr. Williams, at 11 o'clock and 20 minutes,

The Senate adjourned.

On motion by Mr. Williams, at 4 o'clock and 10 minutes,

Ordered, That the Senate take a recess until 7 o'clock p. m.

SEVEN O'CLOCK P. M.

The Senate resumed, as in Committee of the Whole, the consideration of the bill (H. R. 1143) to provide for the more efficient government of the insurrectionary States ; and the question being on the amendment proposed by Mr. Johnson, as amended,

After debate,

On the question to agree to the said amendment, to wit: Insert at the end of the bill the following as an additional section:

SEC. —. And be it further enacted, That when the constitutional amendment proposed as article fourteen by the thirty-ninth Congress shall have become a part of the Constitution of the United States, and when the people of any one of the late so-called Confederate States shall have formed a constitution in conformity therewith in all respects; and when it shall have provided in such constitution, to be framed by a convention of delegates elected by the persons who may vote upon the ratification or rejection of the constitution as hereinafter provided, that the elective franchise shall be enjoyed by all male citizens of the United States, of whatever color, race, or condition, twenty-one years old and upward, who may have been residents of the State for twelve months previous to the election, except such as may be disqualified on account of rebellion, felony at the common law, idiocy, or insanity; and when said constitution shall have been submitted to the voters of said State, as thus defined, for ratification or rejection; and when the constitution, if ratified by the vote of the people of said State, shall have been submitted to Congress for examination and approval, said State shall, if its constitution be approved by Congress, on such State assenting to the said constitutional amendment, be declared entitled to representation in Congress, and senators and representatives shall be admitted therefrom on their taking the oaths prescribed by law, and then and thereafter the preceding sections of this bill shall be inoperative in said State;

It was determined in the negative; and

The question then recurred on the amendment proposed by Mr. Henderson, to wit: Strike out all after the enacting clause of the bill, and in lieu thereof insert the following:

That the President of the United States shall nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoint a provisional governor for the State of Louisiana, who shall hold his office for one year, unless sooner removed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, or unless sooner superseded by a successor elected under the provisions of this act. Such governor, so appointed, shall have attained the age of thirty years; shall be a citizen of the United States and of the State of Louisiana. He shall not have held any office whatever under the government of the so-called Confederate States, nor of any State which recognized the authority of such pretended government. He shall not have signed, voted for, or by speech or otherwise favored the act of secession of any State, nor shall he be any person who has ever held any office in the army or navy of the United States, and who afterwards took an oath to support the said pretended government; nor shall he be a person who was a member of either house of the Congress of the United States after the first Monday in December, anno Domini eighteen hundred and sixty, and who afterwards took an oath to support the said pretended government; nor shall he be one who has borne arms against the government of the United States, or who has in any way given aid, counsel, countenance, or encouragement to the late rebellion; but shall be one who has at all times borne true faith and allegiance to the government of the United States. And before such nomination shall be acted upon by the Senate, such nominee shall make the same oath (which shall be signed and filed with the Secretary of the Senate) prescribed by the act of second July, eighteen hundred and sixty-two, and which oath shall also contain a declaration that the nominee has done no act which would work a disqualification for holding such office under the provisions of this act.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That the President shall forthwith nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoint a provisional council, consisting of nine persons, who shall have the same qualifications as are herein prescribed for the office of governor, and who, before being confirmed by the Senate, shall on oath make, sign, and file with said Secretary, the same oath as is prescribed for the governor. Such councillors shall continue to hold their office, unless sooner removed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, until a legislature shall be duly elected and qualified under the provisions of this act. Such provisional council shall, with the governor, have all legislative power in such State. But in no event shall the governor or any councillor enter upon the duties of their respective offices until after confirmation by the Senate. A majority of such council shall be a quorum, and the same shall continue in permanent session, with power, however, to order such adjournments as may be deemed proper, but no adjournment for more than thirty days at one time. All bills, resolutions, or orders adopted by the council shall be submitted to the governor for his approval. If he approve the same, he shall sign them; if he disapprove any such bill or resolution, he shall return it with his objections to the council, and the proceedings thereon shall be the same as provided by the Constitution of the United States in case of the return of a bill by the President to Congress.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the governor shall forthwith take possession and charge of all archives and other property belonging to the State, and it shall be his duty to see that all laws of the State and of the United States shall be duly executed within such State. Until all officers shall become elective by the people, as herein provided, the governor shall nominate and, by and with the advice and consent of the provisional council, shall appoint and commission all the officers now provided for by the existing government of said State, or which may hereafter be created by law. Such officers shall hold their offices, unless sooner removed by the governor, with the advice and consent of the provisional council, until successors shall be elected and qualified as herein provided. And all councillors, legislators, and other members and officers of the provisional government hereby established, and also all the members of the constitutional convention hereinafter provided for, shall be selected from such as can truthfully take the oath aforesaid, prescribed by the act of second July, anno Domini eighteen hundred and sixty-two, and, before entering upon the duties of such office, shall take and subscribe such oath, which oath shall be filed with, and preserved by, the chief justice of the State.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That unless otherwise hereinafter provided by Congress, the persons duly qualified as electors according to the provisions of this act in the State of Louisiana shall, upon the first Tuesday of June, anno Domini eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, proceed to elect a governor, lieutenant governor, senate and house of representatives, and all the other officers herein provided to be appointed; which senate and house of representatives shall be composed of the same number of members and be elected from the same districts as is provided under the present government of such State; and the governor, lieutenant governor, senators and representatives, and all the other officers of such provisional government shall, respectively, hold their offices for one year, and until their successors are duly qualified, unless such officers are sooner removed or superseded, in pursuance of the other provisions of this act. All such officers so elected shall have the same qualifications, and shall take, subscribe, and file the same oath, as is herein required in the case of the appointment of such officers. And the powers, duties, fees, and compensation of all such officers shall be the same as now by law appertain to such offices, respectively, in so far as such laws are not inconsistent with the provisions of this act.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That the following persons, and no others, shall be electors and entitled to vote at all elections held under the provisions of this act, namely: every male citizen of the United States, without distinction of race or color, who has attained the age of twenty-one years, and has resided in Louisiana one year, and who has never borne arms against the United States since he was a citizen thereof, and who can truthfully take the oath prescribed by the act aforesaid of July second, anno Domini eighteen hundred and sixty-two: Provided, That any person otherwise qualified as an elector, as herein provided, and who never voluntarily gave aid, countenance, encouragement, or support to any rebellion against the United States, nor any such aid, countenance, encouragement, or support to any government inimical to the United States, in any other manner, capacity, or rank, than as a private soldier in open and civilized warfare, may be admitted to the rights of an elector by an order of the officer or person making the registration of voters, upon establishing, to the satisfaction of such person, by the testimony of persons who have at all times borne true allegiance to the United States, that he is one coming within the description of persons designated in this proviso. Upon such proof being made, and upon taking and subscribing upon the records of the registering officer an oath that all the things are true which bring the applicant within the exceptions of this proviso, and also that such person will at all times bear true allegiance to the United States, and to the perpetual union of the States thereunder, such person shall receive a certificate which shall entitle him to the rights of an elector.

SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That the governor and council are hereby required to make and publish rules providing for—

First. A just and true registration, prior to each general election, of the names of all persons who, under the provisions of this act, are entitled to vote at any election named in this act; and he shall designate persons, having the qualifications of electors, by whom such registration shall be made, which registration shall be completed and made accessible to all the electors of the State at least one week before each general election.

Second. For the time of holding all elections the time for holding which is not fixed by this act; and also for the places and manner of holding and conducting all the elections contemplated by this act, including rules for receiving, counting, certifying, and returning the votes cast; the granting certificates of election; the appointment and compensation of all judges and other officers of elections; and for every other thing which shall be necessary to the holding of a free election by the people. But all officers and agents appointed to make such registrations, and to conduct, make returns of, certify to, or do any act touching any election, shall be persons entitled to the rights of an elector under the provisions of this act; and all such persons shall, before entering upon such duties, take and subscribe the oath aforesaid, prescribed by the act of July second, anno Domini eighteen hundred and sixty-two, and also to faithfully and impartially discharge the duties of their office.

SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That upon the first Monday in August, anno Domini eighteen hundred and sixty-seven, unless the Congress of the United States should by law otherwise provide, an election shall be held by all the persons qualified to vote under the provisions of this act for the choice of members to a convention to adopt a permanent constitution and frame of government for the State of Louisiana. No person shall be eligible to a seat in such convention who has not attained the age of twenty-five years, and who has not all the other qualifications prescribed by this act for the governor; and such convention shall be composed of the same number of members and shall be elected from the same districts as is now provided by law for the house of representatives. And no person shall take a seat in such convention who has not first taken, and upon the journals of the convention subscribed, the oath prescribed by the act of second July, anno Domini eighteen hundred and sixty-two. The constitution framed by such convention shall not permit any distinction in the rights of men on account of race or color, and shall recognize the power and duty of the government of the United States to protect and enforce the perpetual union of the States under such government. Said constitution shall provide that no debt, demand, or liability contracted or incurred, in the name of the State or otherwise, in support of the recent rebellion, shall be assumed or paid; and that no pension, compensation, gift, or gratuity, shall be bestowed upon or paid by the State to any person for the loss of the service or labor of any person or by reason of anything done or suffered in support of the rebellion. And such constitution shall provide that the aforesaid provisions shall be irreversible and incapable of abrogation by amendment thereof. Such constitution shall be submitted for approval by the convention, at such time as it may fix, not less than sixty days after the adjournment of the convention, to the electors of the State qualified to vote under the provisions of this act; the election to be held under rules prescribed as aforesaid by the governor and council, and if approved by a majority of such electors, it may be presented to Congress for the admission of the State to representation in Congress thereunder, upon such terms as may be by them prescribed.

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the President of the United States to designate forthwith an officer of the army of the United States, who is of rank not below a brigadier general, who shall be stationed in the State of Louisiana, and shall be the military commander within the State; it shall, moreover, be the duty of the President to place in such State, under the command of such officer, such military force as shall be requisite to execute the duties herein assigned to such commander. It shall be the duty of such commander to aid the civil authorities in the State, whenever they shall be unable to enforce the laws enacted by the governor and council; and such commander, on the application of the council, or of the governor when the council is not in session, shall protect the people against domestic violence. And it shall, moreover, be the duty of such commander to render such support to the civil authorities in the preservation of order, and in the enforcement of the laws and rules regulating elections, and also all other laws, both of the United States and of the State, as shall insure the full, speedy, and impartial enforcement of all such laws and of equal justice, and this without regard to race or color.

SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That the militia of the State shall consist of all the citizens of the State qualified as electors under this act, who shall be, as soon as practicable, duly organized and equipped, under laws adopted by the governor and council; and during the existence of the provisional government hereby created, such militia shall act under the direction of the aforesaid military commander within the State.

SEC. 10. And be it further enacted, That all laws now in force in Louisiana, consistent with the Constitution and laws of the United States and with the provisions of this act, shall remain in force until repealed or modified: Provided, That no person shall be competent to act as a juror who is not an elector under the provisions of this act: And provided, also, That all the expenses of and incident to the administration of the provisional government herein provided for shall be collected and paid in such manner as may be prescribed by the governor and council.

SEC. 11. And be it further enacted, That the President shall appoint a governor and council, as herein provided, for each of the States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Texas, and Arkansas, whose qualifications and duties shall be the same as prescribed for those in the State of Louisiana; and all proceedings herein provided for the organization of a republican government in Louisiana, and the restoration of said State to representation in Congress, shall be had in each of the States named in this section.

It was determined in the negative.

On motion by Mr. Sherman, to amend the bill by striking out all after the enacting clause and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

That said rebel States shall be divided into military districts and made subject to the military authority of the United States, as hereinafter prescribed, and for that purpose Virginia shall constitute the first district; North Carolina and South Carolina the second district; Georgia, Alabama, and Florida the third district; Mississippi and Arkansas the fourth district; and Louisiana and Texas the fifth district.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the President to assign to the command of each of said districts an officer of the army, not below the rank of brigadier general, and to detail a sufficient military force to enable such officer to perform his duties and enforce his authority within the district to which he is assigned.

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of each officer assigned as aforesaid to protect all persons in their rights of person and property, to suppress insurrection, disorder, and violence, and to punish, or cause to be punished, all disturbers of the public peace and criminals, and to this end he may allow local civil tribunals to take jurisdiction of and to try offenders, or, when in his judgment it may be necessary for the trial of offenders, he shall have power to organize military commissions or tribunals for that purpose; and all interference under color of State authority with the exercise of military authority under this act shall be null and void.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That all persons put under military arrest by virtue of this act shall be tried without unnecessary delay, and no cruel or unusual punishment shall be inflicted; and no sentence of any military commission or tribunal hereby authorized, affecting the life or liberty of any person, shall be executed until it is approved by the officer in command of the district, and the laws and regulations for the government of the army shall not be affected by this act, except in so far as they conflict with its provisions.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That when the people of any one of said rebel States shall have formed a constitution of government in conformity with the Constitution of the United States in all respects, framed by a convention of delegates elected by the male citizens of said State twenty-one years old and upward, of whatever race, color, or previous condition of servitude, who have been resident in said State for one year previous to the day of such election, except such as may be disfranchised for participation in the rebellion or for felony at common law, and when such constitution shall provide that the elective franchise shall be enjoyed by all such persons as have the qualifications herein stated for electors of delegates, and when such constitution shall be ratified by a majority of the persons voting on the question of ratification who are qualified as electors for delegates, and when such constitution shall have been submitted to Congress for examination and approval, and Congress shall have approved the same, and when said State, by a vote of its legislature elected under said constitution, shall have adopted the amendment to the Constitution of the United States proposed by the thirty-ninth Congress, and known as article fourteen, and when said article shall have become a part of the Constitution of the United States, said State shall be declared entitled to representation in Congress, and senators and representatives shall be admitted therefrom on their taking the oaths prescribed by law, and then and thereafter the preceding sections of this act shall be inoperative in said State.

HALF PAST SEVEN O'CLOCK P. M.

The following message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Moore, his secretary:

To the Senate of the United States:

In answer to the resolution of the Senate of the 27th of July last, relative to the practicability of establishing equal reciprocal relations between the United States and the British North American provinces, and to the actual condition of the question of the fisheries, I transmit a report on the subject from the Secretary of State, with the papers to which it refers.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON, February 16, 1867.

The message was read.

Ordered, That it lie on the table and be printed.

The following message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Moore, his secretary:

To the Senate of the United States:

I have received a resolution of the Senate, dated the 8th day of January last, requesting the President to inform the Senate if any violations of the act entitled "An act to protect all persons in the United States in their civil rights and furnish the means of their vindication," have come to his knowledge; and if so, what steps, if any, have been taken by him to enforce the law and punish the offenders.

Not being cognizant of any cases which came within the purview of the resolution, in order that the inquiry might have the fullest range, I referred it to the heads of the several executive departments, whose reports are herewith communicated for the information of the Senate.

With the exception of the cases mentioned in the reports of the Secretary of War and the Attorney General, no violations, real or supposed, of the act to which the resolution refers, have at any time come to the knowledge of the Executive. The steps taken in these cases to enforce the law appear in these reports.

The Secretary of War, under date of the 15th instant, submitted a series of reports from the general commanding the armies of the United States and other military officers as to supposed violations of the act alluded to in the resolution, with the request that they should be referred to the Attorney General "for his investigation and report, to the end that the cases may be designated which are cognizant by the civil authorities and such as are cognizant by military tribunals." I have directed the reference so to be made.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

So the motion was agreed to.

On motion by Mr. Williams,

The Senate proceeded to consider the amendments of the House of Representatives to the amendment of the Senate to the joint resolution of the House (H. R. 224) giving additional compensation to certain employés in the civil service of the government at Washington; and,

On motion by Mr. Williams,

Resolved, That the Senate agree to the amendments of the House of Representatives to the amendment of the Senate to the said resolution.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

On motion by Mr. Lane,

Ordered, That the Senate, at half past four o'clock p. m. this day, take a recess until half past seven o'clock p. m.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. McPherson, its Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives has passed a bill (H. R. 1161) to amend existing laws relating to internal revenue, in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives having signed four enrolled bills (H. R. 904, H. R. 912, H. R. 1051, and H. R. 1062) and an enrolled joint resolution, (H. R. 213,) I am directed to bring them to the Senate for the signature of its President.

The bill (H. R. 1161) last received from the House of Representatives for concurrence was read the first and second times by unanimous consent and referred to the Committee on Finance.

On motion by Mr. Fessenden,

The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the bill (H. R. 1126) making appropriations for the support of the army for the year ending June 30, 1868, and for other purposes; and the amendments reported by the Committee on Finance having been in part agreed to and in part disagreed to, and the bill further amended on the motion of Mr. Wilson, on the motion of Mr. Lane, on the motion of Mr. Fessenden, and on the motion of Mr. Trumbull,

On motion by Mr. Wilson to further amend the bill by inserting at the end thereof the following as an additional section:

And be it further enacted, That all militia forces now organized or in service in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Texas, be forthwith disbanded, and that the further organization, arming, or calling into service of the said militia forces, or any part thereof, is hereby prohibited under any circumstances whatever, until the same shall be authorized by Congress,

H. R. 290. Joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of the Navy to grant the use of guns for trial of Ridgway's battery.

On motion by Mr. Sherman,

The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the bill (H. R. 1173) making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the government for the year ending June 30, 1868, and for other purposes; and the amendments reported by the Committee on Finance having been agreed to in part, and the bill further amended on the motion of Mr. Sherman, from the Committee on Finance,

On the question to agree to the amendment reported by the Committee on Finance to strike out the second section of the bill; and an amendment to the amendment being proposed by Mr. Edmunds,

After debate and the consideration of executive business,

The Senate, in pursuance of the order of this day, took a recess until

HALF PAST SEVEN O'CLOCK P. M.

On motion by Mr. Hendricks,

The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the joint resolution (H. R. 175) to audit and pay the claim of Tuller & Fisher, of Missouri, and, no amendment being made, it was reported to the Senate.

Ordered, That it pass to a third reading.

The said resolution was read the third time.

Resolved, That it pass.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

On motion by Mr. Ramsey,

The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the joint resolution (S. 165) to refer the claim of the trustees of A. G. Sloo to the Court of Claims; and no amendment being made, it was reported to the Senate.

Ordered, That it be engrossed and read a third time.

The said resolution was read the third time.

Resolved, That it pass, and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

Ordered, That the Secretary request the concurrence of the House of Representatives therein.

Mr. Conness, from the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses upon the bill of the House (H. R. 878) to quiet title to land in the town of Santa Clara, in the State of California, submitted the following report.

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses upon the bill of the House (H. R. 878) to quiet title to land in the town of Santa Clara, in the State of California, after full and free conference, do agree to recommend to their respective houses as follows: That the Senate recede from so much of their amendments as inserts in the bill, and also in the title, the word Placerville; and that the Senate agree to the said amendment as modified; and, also, that the House recede from their disagreement to the other amendments of the Senate to the said bill, and agree to the same.

JOHN CONNESS,

HENRY WILSON,

JOSEPH S. FOWLER,

Managers on the part of the Senate.

D. C. McRUER,

S. T. HOLMES,

A. J. GLOSSBRENNER,

Managers on the part of the House of Representatives.

The Senate proceeded to consider the report; and

On motion by Mr. Conness,

Resolved, That the Senate agree thereto.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

On motion by Mr. Wilson,

The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the joint resolution (H. R. 205) for the erection of an equestrian statue to the memory of Brevet Lieutenant General Winfield Scott; and the amendment reported by the Committee on Military Affairs and the Militia having been disagreed to, and the resolution having been then amended on the motion of Mr. Grimes, it was reported to the Senate and the amendments were concurred in.

Ordered, That the amendments be engrossed and the resolution read a third time.

The said resolution as amended was read the third time; and

On the question, Shall the resolution pass?

It was determined in the affirmative, { Yeas 26

Resolved, That the Postmaster General inform the Senate whether any and what mail contracts, if any, have been made with A. D. Trotter, of Staunton, Virginia; and whether any and what moneys, if any, have been paid by the government to said Trotter on said contracts without his taking the oath of office prescribed therefor by act of Congress; whether the oath filed, upon which the said A. D. Trotter has drawn his pay as mail contractor, is in the form prescribed by law, and whether the said Trotter ever actually subscribed and took the oath so filed.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. McPherson, its Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives further insists upon its disagreement to the amendments of the Senate to the bill of the House (H. R. 896) making appropriations for the legislative, executive, and judicial expenses of the government for the year ending the 30th of June, 1868, and for other purposes, and upon its amendment to the 46th amendment of the Senate to the said bill. It agrees to the further conference asked by the Senate on the disagreeing votes of the two houses thereon, and has appointed Mr. Farnsworth, Mr. Woodbridge, and Mr. Eldridge managers at the same on its part.

The House of Representatives has agreed to some and disagreed to other amendments of the Senate to the bill of the House (H. R. 1039) making appropriations for the current and contingent expenses of the Indian department, and for fulfilling treaty stipulations with various Indian tribes, for the year ending 30th June, 1868, and for other purposes; and it has agreed to other amendments of the Senate to the said bill with amendments. It asks a conference on the disagreeing votes of the houses thereon, and has appointed Mr. Kasson, Mr. Windom, and Mr. Niblack managers at the same on its part.

The House of Representatives has passed the bill of the Senate (S. 534) to provide for the allotment of the members of the Supreme Court among the circuits, and for the appointment of a marshal for the Supreme Court, with amendments in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate; and

It has passed a bill (H. R. 1225) for the relief of Lieutenant John H. Osler, of Guernsey county, Ohio, in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives having signed an enrolled bill (H. R. 878) and three enrolled joint resolutions, (S. 182, H. R. 92, and H. R. 175,) I am directed to bring them to the Senate for the signature of its President.

Mr. Nye reported from the committee that they had examined and found duly enrolled the following bill and joint resolutions:

H. R. 878. An act to quiet title to land in the towns of Santa Clara and Petaluma, in the State of California.

H. R. 92. Joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of the Interior to pay certain claims out of the balance of an appropriation for the payment of necessary expenditures in the service of the United States for Indian affairs in the Territory of Utah.

H. R. 175. Joint resolution to audit and pay the claim of Tuller & Fisher, of Missouri.

The bill (H. R. 1225) last received from the House of Representatives for concurrence was read the first and second times by unanimous consent, and referred to the Committee on Military Affairs and the Militia.

The President pro tempore signed the enrolled joint resolution (S. 182) yesterday reported to have been examined, and the enrolled bill (H. R. 878) and the enrolled joint resolutions (H. R. 92 and H. R. 175) last reported to have been examined, and they were delivered to the committee to be presented to the President of the United States.

Mr. Trumbull, from the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the joint resolution of the House (H. R. 222) prohibiting payments by any officer of the government to any person not known to have been opposed to the rebellion and in favor of its suppression, submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the joint resolution of the House (H. R. 222) prohibiting payments by any officer of the government to any person not known to have been opposed to the rebellion and in favor of its suppression, having met, after full and free conference, have agreed to recommend, and do recommend, to their respective houses as follows: That the Senate recede from its first amendment disagreed to by the House and agree to the bill as passed by the House with the Senate's other amendments.

LYMAN TRUMBULL,
GEORGE G. FOGG,
J. W. NESMITH,

Managers on the part of the Senate.

C. DELANO,
JOHN B. ALLEN,
A. THORNTON,

Managers on the part of the House of Representatives.

The Senate proceeded to consider the report; and,

On motion by Mr. Trumbull,

Resolved, That the Senate agree thereto.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

The Senate proceeded to consider its amendments to the bill of the House (H. R. 1039) making appropriations for the current and contingent expenses of the Indian Department and for fulfilling treaty stipulations with various Indian tribes for the year ending 30th June, 1868, and for other purposes, disagreed to by the House of Representatives, and the amendments of the House to other amendments of the Senate to the said bill; and,

On motion by Mr. Pomeroy,

Resolved, That the Senate insist upon its amendments to the said bill, disagreed to by the House of Representatives; disagree to the amendments of the House to other amendments of the Senate thereto, and agree to the conference asked by the House on the disagreeing votes of the two houses thereon.

Ordered, That the conferees on the part of the Senate be appointed by the President pro tempore; and

The President pro tempore appointed Mr. Henderson, Mr. Morrill, and Mr. Sherman.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

The Senate resumed, as in Committee of the Whole, the consideration of the bill (H. R. 1173) making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the government for the year ending June 30, 1868, and for other purposes; and Mr. Wilson having withdrawn the amendment proposed by him yesterday to the amendment reported by the Committee on Finance to insert as an additional section the following, as modified on the motion of Mr. Sherman:

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to pay to such persons as were actually employed as assistant assessors in the collection of internal revenue in the rebel States prior to the first day of August, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, compensation at the rate prescribed by law, and an amount sufficient for that purpose is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated;

On motion by Mr. Edmunds to amend the amendment, by striking out all after the enacting clause and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

That the Secretary of the Treasury is directed to report to Congress, as soon as may be, the names of all persons employed in assessing or collecting the revenue from customs and from internal taxation, who did not, before entering upon the duties of their appointments, take and subscribe the oaths required by law, together with the nature, place, and amount of service rendered by each of such persons, and the sums paid to or retained by such persons, respectively, on account thereof, and the sums, if any, now claimed by such persons for such services;

Mr. Sumner raised the question of order on the amendment reported by the Committee on Finance, viz: that being an amendment to provide for a private claim, it was not in order under the 30th rule of the Senate.

The President pro tempore decided that the amendment having been reported with the bill by the Committee on Finance, it was in order.

From this decision of the Chair Mr. Sumner appealed to the Senate; and

After debate,

On the question, Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the judgment of the Senate?

It was determined in the affirmative,	Yeas	37

Those who voted in the negative are,

Messrs. Creswell, Fowler, Howard, Howe, Nye, Pomeroy, Sumner, Trumbull, Wade, Yates.

So the decision of the Chair was sustained; and

On the question to agree to the amendment proposed by Mr. Edmunds to the amendment of the committee,

It was determined in the negative; and

On the question to agree to the amendment reported by the Committee on Finance, to come in as section 8 of the bill,

It was determined in the affirmative, { Yeas 33

Those who voted in the negative are,

Messrs. Chandler, Edmunds, Fowler, Howard, Howe, Kirkwood, Nye, Pomeroy, Sumner, Trumbull, Wade, Wilson, Yates.

So the amendment reported by the Committee on Finance was agreed to; and

The residue of the amendments reported by the Committee on Finance having been agreed to; and

The bill having been further amended on the motions of Messrs. Fessenden, Wilson, Williams, Brown, Wade, Creswell, Sprague, and Ross, was reported to the Senate.

On the question to concur in the following amendment made in Committee of the Whole, viz: strike out the following clause:

"For a custom house in Newport, Vermont, ten thousand dollars,"

It was determined in the negative.

So the clause was not stricken out of the bill.

On the question to concur in the following amendment made in Committee of the Whole, to wit, insert as an additional section the following:

SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That the Secretary of the Treasury is hereby authorized to pay to such persons as were actually employed as assistant assessors in the collection of internal revenue in the rebel States prior to the first day of August, eighteen hundred and sixty-six, compensation at the rate prescribed by law, and an amount sufficient for that purpose is hereby appropriated out of any money in the treasury not otherwise appropriated,

Those who voted in the negative are,

Messrs. Creswell, Edmunds, Fowler, Howe, Kirkwood, Nye, Pomeroy, Sumner, Trumbull, Wade, Wilson, Yates.

So the amendment made in Committee of the Whole was concurred in.

The residue of the amendments made in Committee of the Whole having been concurred in, and the bill further amended on the motion of Mr. Fessenden and on the motion of Mr. Ross,

On the question, Shall the amendments be engrossed and the bill read a third time?

It was determined in the affirmative.

The said bill as amended was read the third time.

Resolved, That it pass.

Ordered, That the Secretary request the concurrence of the House of Representatives in the amendments.

On motion by Mr. Trumbull,

The Senate proceeded to consider the amendments of the House of Representatives to the bill of the Senate (S. 534) to provide for the allotment of the members of the Supreme Court among the circuits, and for the appointment of a marshal for the Supreme Court; and

On motion by Mr. Trumbull,

Resolved, That the Senate disagree to the amendments of the House to the said bill.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

Mr. Howe reported from the committee that they this day presented to the President of the United States the following enrolled bills and joint resolutions:

H. R. 457. An act for the relief of Hiram Paulding, rear-admiral United States navy.

H. R. 1068. An act for the relief of Mary A. Cross.

H. R. 1092. An act for the relief of Milton Velzy.

Mr. Hendricks, from the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the bill (S. 220) for the relief of certain contractors for the construction of vessels-of-war and steam machinery, submitted a report thereon:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the bill (S. 220) for the relief of certain contractors for the construction of vessels-of-war and steam machinery having met, after full and free conference, have agreed to recommend, and do recommend, to their respective houses as follows: That the Senate agree to the House amendment, with the following amendments:

After the word "same," in the fourth line, insert the words under contracts made after the first day of May, 1861, and prior to the first day of January, 1864.

Add to the House amendment the following words: Provided, That the Secretary of the Navy, under this resolution, shall investigate the claim of W. H. Webb for constructing the steamer Dunderberg, applying the provisions of this resolution in such investigation, except that proper consideration shall be given to the increased cost incurred by said Webb by reason of any alteration in the plans and specifications for the Dunderberg made during the progress of the work, whether such alterations were provided for in the original contract or not, when payments for the same were not embraced in the contract price.

THOMAS A. HENDRICKS,

H. B. ANTHONY,

W. T. WILLEY,

Managers on the part of the Senate.

J. C. SLOAN,

C. DELANO,

Managers on the part of the House of Representatives.

The Senate proceeded to consider the report, and

On motion by Mr. Hendricks,

Resolved, That the Senate agree thereto.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

On motion by Mr. Fessenden,

The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the bill (H. R. 1161) to amend existing laws relating to revenue; and

On motion by Mr. Wilson, at fifteen minutes past 5 o'clock,

Ordered, That the Senate take a recess until

It has passed a bill (H. R. 1183) amendatory of an act for the disposal of the public lands for homestead settlement in the States of Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, and Florida, in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives having signed three enrolled bills, (S. 460, S. 547, and S. 550,) I am directed to bring them to the Senate for the signature of its President.

Mr. Nye reported from the Committee that they had examined and found duly enrolled the following bills:

S. 460. An act in relation to persons imprisoned under sentence for offences against the laws of the United States.

S. 547. An act to amend an act entitled "An act to extend the time for the reversion to the United States of the lands granted by Congress to aid in the construction of a railroad from Amboy, by Hillsdale and Lansing, to some point on or near Traverse bay, in the State of Michigan, and for the completion of said road," approved July 3, 1866.

S. 550. An act to amend an act entitled "An act authorizing the construction of a jail in and for the District of Columbia," approved June 25, 1866.

The President pro tempore signed the enrolled bills (S. 460, S. 547, and S. 550) last reported to have been examined, and they were delivered to the committee to be presented to the President of the United States.

The bill (H. R. 1183) last received from the House of Representatives for concurrence was read the first and second times by unanimous consent and referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

The Senate proceeded to consider the amendment of the House of Representatives to the bill of the Senate (S. 532) for the relief of the inhabitants of cities and towns upon the public lands; and,

On motion by Mr. Conness,

Ordered, That it be referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Mr. Morrill, from the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the bill (H. R. 234) to incorporate the National Capital Insurance Company, submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the bill of the House (H. R. 234) to incorporate the National Capital Insurance Company, having met, after full and free conference, have agreed to recommend, and do recommend, to their respective houses as follows:

That the Senate recede from their first amendment with the following amendment: In line 9, page 1, after the word "elsewhere," insert subject to the laws of the several States, and the House agree to the same.

That the Senate recede from their second amendment, with the following amendment: In line 14, page 1, after the word "elsewhere," insert subject to the laws of the States as aforesaid, and the House agree to the same.

That the Senate recede from their third amendment, and that the whole of section 9, as amended, be stricken from the bill.

That the Senate recede from their fourth amendment, with the following amendments: In line 27, page 6, strike out the word "twenty" and insert one hundred and fifty. After the word "dollars," in line 1, page 7, insert in shares of fifty dollars each. In line 2 of same page strike out the word "twenty" and insert one hundred and fifty. Strike out all of 10th section after the word "insurances," in line 3, page 7, and the House agree to the same.

The President pro tempore signed the nine enrolled bills (S. 128, S. 264, S. 470, S. 477, S. 493, S. 529, S. 534, S. 570, S. 589) and the enrolled joint resolution (S. 160) last reported to have been examined, and they were delivered to the committee to be presented to the President of the United States.

The following message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Moore, his secretary:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

I transmit to Congress a copy of a correspondence between the Secretary of State and G. V. Fox, esq., relative to the presentation by the latter to the Emperor of Russia of the resolution of Congress expressive of the feelings of the people of the United States in reference to the providential escape of that sovereign from an attempted assassination.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON, February 21, 1867.

The message was read.

Ordered, That it lie on the table and be printed.

The President pro tempore laid before the Senate a report of the Postmaster General, communicating, in compliance with a resolution of the Senate of the 28th ultimo, calling for information relative to mail contracts with A. D. Trotter, of Staunton, Virginia, the amount of money paid him on said contracts without his taking the oaths prescribed by act of Congress; which was read.

Ordered, That it lie on the table and be printed.

Mr. Nye reported from the committee that they had examined and found duly enrolled the following bills :

S. 501. An act amendatory of "An act to provide a temporary government for the Territory of Montana," approved May twenty-sixth, eighteen hundred and sixty-four.

S. 547. An act to amend an act entitled "An act to extend the time for the reversion to the United States of the lands granted by Congress to aid in the construction of a railroad from Amboy by Hillsdale and Lansing to some point on or near Traverse bay, in the State of Michigan, and for the completion of said road," approved July 3, 1866.

Mr. Sherman submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to.

Resolved, That there be printed for the use of the Senate twenty thousand additional copies of the report of the Commissioner of Agriculture for the year 1866, and the accompanying documents, and three thousand additional copies of the same for the use of the Department of Agriculture.

Mr. Nye reported from the committee that they this day presented to the President of the United States the following enrolled bills and enrolled joint resolutions :

H. R. 588. An act for the relief of Richard Chenery.

H. R. 1154. An act making appropriations for the repair, preservation, and completion of certain public works heretofore commenced under the authority of law, and for other purposes.

H. R. 1166. An act to authorize the building of light-houses therein mentioned, and for other purposes.

H. R. 205. Joint resolution for the erection of an equestrian statue to the memory of Brevet Lieutenant General Winfield Scott.

H. R. 222. Joint resolution prohibiting payment by any officer of the government to any person not known to have been opposed to the rebellion and in favor of its suppression.

H. R. 268. Joint resolution to pay Lieutenant John H. Hamlin for military service.

On motion by Mr. Sumner,

The joint resolution (S. 183) thanking the chambers of senators and deputies of Brazil for their resolutions of sorrow and sympathy on the death of President Lincoln, was read the second time, and considered as in Committee of the Whole; and no amendment being made, it was reported to the Senate.

Ordered, That it be engrossed and read a third time.

The said resolution was read the third time by unanimous consent.

Resolved, That it pass, and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

Ordered, That the Secretary request the concurrence of the House of Representatives therein.

Mr. Nye reported from the committee that they this day presented to the President of the United States the following enrolled bills and joint resolution :

S. 128. An act authorising limited partnerships in the District of Columbia.

S. 264. An act to grant certain privileges to the Alexandria, Washington and Georgetown Railroad Company in the District of Columbia.

S. 470. An act to authorize the change of a name.

S. 477. An act to amend an act entitled "An act to continue, alter, and amend the charter of the city of Washington," approved May 17, 1848.

S. 493. An act supplemental to "An act to establish the Treasury Department," approved the 2d of September, 1789.

S. 529. An act to incorporate the Howard University in the District of Columbia.

S. 534. An act to provide for the allotment of the members of the Supreme Court among the circuits, and for the appointment of a marshal for the Supreme Court.

S. 570. An act extending the time for the completion of certain street railways.

S. 589. An act to amend an act entitled "An act to incorporate the National Theological Institute," and to define and extend the powers of the same.

S. R. 160. Joint resolution for the relief of Dempsey Reece, of Indiana.

The following message was received from the President of the United States, by Mr. Moore, his secretary :

To the Senate of the United States :

I have carefully examined the bill "to regulate the tenure of certain civil offices." The material portion of the bill is contained in the first section, and is of the effect following, namely : "That every person holding any civil office to which he has been appointed by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and every person who shall hereafter be appointed to any such office and shall become duly qualified to act therein, is and shall be entitled to hold such office until a successor shall have been appointed by the President with the advice and consent of the Senate, and duly qualified ; and that the Secretaries of State, of the Treasury, of War, of the Navy, and of the Interior, the Postmaster General and the Attorney General, shall hold their offices respectively for and during the term of the President by whom they may have been appointed, and for one month thereafter, subject to removal by and with the advice and consent of the Senate."

These provisions are qualified by a reservation in the fourth section, "that nothing contained in the bill shall be construed to extend the term of any office, the duration of which is limited by law." In effect the bill provides that the President shall not remove from their places any of the civil officers whose terms of service are not limited by law, without the advice and consent of the Senate of the United States. The bill in this respect conflicts, in my judgment, with the Constitution of the United States. The question, as Congress is well aware, is by no means a new one. That the power of removal is constitutionally vested in the President of the United States is a principle which has been not more distinctly declared by judicial authority and judicial commentators than it has been uniformly practiced upon by the legislative and executive departments of the government. The question arose in the House of Representatives so early as the 16th of June, 1789, on the bill for establishing an executive department denominated "the Department of Foreign Affairs." The first clause of the bill, after recapitulating the functions of that officer and defining his duties, had these words : "to be removable from office by the President of the United States." It was moved to strike out these words, and the motion was sustained with great ability and vigor. It was insisted that the President could not constitutionally exercise the power of removal exclusively of the Senate ; that the Federalist so interpreted the Constitution when arguing for its adoption by the several States ; that the Constitution had nowhere given the President power of removal, either expressly or by strong implication, but, on the contrary, had distinctly provided for removals from office by impeachment only.

A construction which denied the power of removal by the President was further maintained by arguments drawn from the danger of the abuse of the power ; from the supposed tendency of an exposure of public officers to capricious removal to impair the efficiency of the civil service ; from the alleged injustice and hardship of displacing incumbents dependent upon their official stations, without sufficient consideration ; from a supposed want of responsibility on the part of the President, and from an imagined defect of guarantees against a vicious President who might incline to abuse the power. On the other hand, an exclusive power of removal by the President was defended as a true exposition of the text of the Constitution. It was maintained that there are certain causes for which persons ought to be removed from office without being guilty of treason, bribery, or malfeasance, and that the nature of things demands that it should be so. "Suppose," it was said, "a man becomes insane by the visitation of God, and is likely to ruin our affairs; are the hands of the government to be confined from warding off the evil? Suppose a person in office, not possessing the talents he was judged to have at the time of the appointment; is the error not to be corrected? Suppose he acquires vicious habits and incurable indolence, or total neglect of the duties of his office, which shall work mischief to the public welfare; is there no way to arrest the threatened danger? Suppose he becomes odious and unpopular by reason of the measures he pursues—and this he may do without committing any positive offence against the law—must he preserve his office in despite of the popular will? Suppose him grasping for his own aggrandizement and the elevation of his connections by every means short of the treason defined by the Constitution, hurrying your affairs to the precipice of destruction, endangering your domestic tranquillity, plundering you of the means of defence, alienating the affections of your allies and promoting the spirit of discord; must the tardy, tedious, desultory road by way of impeachment be travelled to overtake the man who, barely confining himself within the letter of the law, is employed in drawing off the vital principle of the government? The nature of things, the great objects of society, the express objects of the Constitution itself require that this thing should be otherwise. To unite the Senate with the President in the exercise of the power," it was said, "would involve us in the most serious difficulty. Suppose a discovery of any of those events should take place when the Senate is not in session; how is the remedy to be applied? The evil could be avoided in no other way than by the Senate sitting always." In regard to the danger of the power being abused if exercised by one man, it was said "that the danger is as great with respect to the Senate, who are assembled from various parts of the continent, with different impressions and opinions;" "that such a body is more likely to misuse the power of removal than the man whom the united voice of America calls to the presidential chair. As the nature of government requires the power of removal," it was maintained "that it should be exercised in this way by the hand capable of exerting itself with effect; and the power must be conferred on the President by the Constitution as the executive officer of the government."

Mr. Madison, whose adverse opinion in the Federalist had been relied upon by those who denied the exclusive power, now participated in the debate. He declared that he had reviewed his former opinions, and he summed up the whole case as follows:

"The Constitution affirms that the executive power is vested in the President. Are there exceptions to this proposition? Yes, there are. The Constitution says that in appointing to office the Senate shall be associated with the President, unless in the case of inferior officers, when the law shall otherwise direct. Have we (that is, Congress) a right to extend this exception? I believe not. If the Constitution has invested all executive power in the President, I venture to assert that the legislature has no right to diminish or modify his executive authority. The question now resolves itself into this: Is the power of displacing an executive power? I conceive that if any power whatsoever is in the Executive it is the power of appointing, overseeing, and controlling those who execute the laws. If the Constitution had not qualified the power of the President in appointing to office by associating the Senate with him in that business, would it not be clear that he would have the right, by virtue of his executive power, to make such appointment? Should we be authorized, in defiance of that clause in the Constitution—'The executive power shall be vested in the President'—to unite the Senate with the President in the appointment to office? I conceive not. If it is admitted that we should not be authorized to do this, I think it may be disputed whether we have a right to associate them in removing persons from office, the one power being as much of an executive nature as the other; and the first one is authorized by being excepted out of the general rule established by the Constitution in these words: 'The executive power shall be vested in the President.'"

The question thus ably and exhaustively argued was decided by the House of Representatives, by a vote of thirty-four to twenty, in favor of the principle that the executive power of removal is vested by the Constitution in the Executive, and in the Senate by the casting vote of the Vice-President.

The question has often been raised in subsequent times of high excitement, and the practice of the government has nevertheless conformed in all cases to the decision thus early made.

The question was revived during the administration of President Jackson, who made, as is well recollected, a very large number of removals, which were made an occasion of close and rigorous scrutiny and remonstrance. The subject was long and earnestly debated in the Senate, and the early construction of the Constitution was nevertheless freely accepted as binding and conclusive upon Congress.

The question came before the Supreme Court of the United States in January, 1839, ex parte Hennen. It was declared by the court on that occasion that the power of removal from office was a subject much disputed, and upon which a great diversity of opinion was entertained in the early history of the government. This related, however, to the power of the President to remove officers appointed with the concurrence of the Senate; and the great question was, whether the removal was to be by the President alone or with the concurrence of the Senate, both constituting the appointing power. No one denied the power of the President and Senate jointly to remove where the tenure of the office was not fixed by the Constitution, which was a full recognition of the principle that the power of removal was incident to the power of appointment; but it was very early adopted as a practical construction of the Constitution that this power was vested in the President alone, and such would appear to have been the legislative construction of the Constitution, for in the organization of the three great departments of State, War, and Treasury, in the year 1789, provision was made for the appointment of a subordinate officer by the head of the department, who should have charge of the records, books, and papers appertaining to the office when the head of the department should be removed from office by the President of the United States. When the Navy Department was established, in the year 1798, provision was made for the charge and custody of the books, records, and documents of the department in case of vacancy in the office of Secretary by removal or otherwise. It is not here said "by removal of the President," as is done with respect to the heads of the other departments, yet there can be no doubt that he holds his office with the same tenure as the other Secretaries and is removable by the President. The change of phraseology arose, probably, from its having become the settled and well understood construction of the Constitution that the power of removal was vested in the President alone in such cases, although the appointment of the officer is by the President and Senate. (13 Peters, page 139.)

Our most distinguished and accepted commentators upon the Constitution concur in the construction thus early given by Congress, and thus sanctioned by the Supreme Court. After a full analysis of the congressional debate to which I have referred, Mr. Justice Story comes to this conclusion: "After a most animated discussion, the vote finally taken in the House of Representatives was affirmative of the power of removal in the President, without any co-operation of the Senate, by the vote of thirty-four members against twenty. In the Senate, the clause in the bill affirming the power was carried by the casting vote of the Vice-President. That the final decision of this question so made was greatly influenced by the exalted character of the President then in office, was asserted at the time, and has always been believed, yet the doctrine was opposed as well as supported by the highest talents and patriotism of the country. The public have acquiesced in this decision, and it constitutes, perhaps, the most extraordinary case in the history of the government of a power conferred by implication on the Executive by the assent of a bare majority of Congress, which has not been questioned on many other occasions." The commentator adds: "Nor is this general acquiescence and silence without a satisfactory explanation."

Chancellor Kent's remarks on the subject are as follows:

"On the first organization of the government it was made a question whether the power of removal in case of officers appointed to hold at pleasure resided nowhere but in the body which appointed, and, of course, whether the consent of the Senate was not requisite to remove. This was the construction given to the Constitution while it was pending for ratification before the State conventions, by the author of the Federalist. But the construction which was given to the Constitution by Congress, after great consideration and discussion, was different. The words of the act (establishing the Treasury Department) are: 'And whenever the same shall be removed from office by the President of the United States, or in any other case of vacancy in the office, the assistant shall act.' This amounted to a legislative construction of the Constitution, and it has ever since been acquiesced in and acted upon as a decisive authority in the case. It applies equally to every other officer of the government appointed by the President, whose term of duration is not specially declared. It is supported by the weighty reason that the subordinate officers in the executive department ought to hold at the pleasure of the head of the department, because he is invested generally with the executive authority, and the participation in that authority by the Senate was an exception to a general principle and ought to be taken strictly. The President is the great responsible officer for the faithful execution of the law, and the power of removal was incidental to that duty, and might often be requisite to fulfil it."

Thus has the important question presented by this bill been settled, in the language of the late Daniel Webster, (who, while dissenting from it, admitted that it was settled,) by construction, settled by precedent, settled by the practice of the government, and settled by statute. The events of the last war furnished a practical confirmation of the wisdom of the Constitution as it has hitherto been maintained, in many of its parts, including that which is now the subject of consideration. When the war broke out rebel enemies, traitors, abettors, and sympathizers were found in every department of the government, as well in the civil service as in the land and naval military service. They were found in Congress and among the keepers of the Capitol; in foreign missions; in each and all the executive departments; in the judicial service; in the post office, and among the agents for conducting Indian affairs. Upon probable suspicion they were promptly displaced by my predecessor, so far as they held their offices under executive authority, and their duties were confided to new and loyal successors. No complaints against that power or doubts of its wisdom were entertained in any quarter. I sincerely trust and believe that no such civil war is likely to occur again. I cannot doubt, however, that in whatever form, and on whatever occasion, sedition can raise an effort to hinder, or embarrass, or defeat the legitimate action of this government, whether by preventing the collection of revenue, or disturbing the public peace, or separating the States, or betraying the country to a foreign enemy, the power of removal from office by the Executive, as it has heretofore existed and been practiced, will be found indispensable.

Under these circumstances, as a depositary of the executive authority of the nation, I do not feel at liberty to unite with Congress in reversing it by giving my approval to the bill. At the early day when this question was settled, and, indeed, at the several periods when it has subsequently been agitated, the success of the Constitution of the United States, as a new and peculiar system of free representative government, was held doubtful in other countries, and was even a subject of patriotic apprehension among the American people themselves. A trial of nearly eighty years, through the vicissitudes of foreign conflicts and of civil war, is confidently regarded as having extinguished all such doubts and apprehensions for the future. During that eighty years the people of the United States have enjoyed a measure of security, peace, prosperity, and happiness, never surpassed by any nation. It cannot be doubted that the triumphant success of the Constitution is due to the wonderful wisdom with which the functions of government were distributed between the three principal departments—the legislative, the executive and the judicial—and to the fidelity with which each has confined itself or been confined by the general voice of the nation within its peculiar and proper sphere. While a just, proper, and watchful jealousy of executive power constantly prevails as it ought ever to prevail, yet it is equally true that an efficient Executive, capable, in the language of the oath prescribed to the President, of executing the laws and, within the sphere of executive action, of preserving, protecting, and defending the Constitution of the United States, is an indispensable security for tranquillity at home, and peace, honor, and safety abroad. Governments have been erected in many countries upon our model. If one or many of them have thus far failed in fully securing to their people the benefits which we have derived from our system, it may be confidently asserted that their misfortune has resulted from their unfortunate failure to maintain the integrity of each of the three great departments while preserving harmony among them all.

Having at an early period accepted the Constitution in regard to the executive office in the sense in which it was interpreted with the concurrence of its founders, I have found no sufficient grounds in the arguments now opposed to that construction or in any assumed necessity of the times for changing those opinions. For these reasons I return the bill to the Senate, in which house it originated, for the further consideration of Congress which the Constitution prescribes. Insomuch as the several parts of the bill which I have not considered are matters chiefly of detail, and are based altogether upon the theory of the Constitution from which I am obliged to dissent, I have not thought it necessary to examine them with a view to make them an occasion of distinct and special objections.

Experience, I think, has shown that it is the easiest, as it is also the most attractive of studies, to frame constitutions for the self-government of free States and nations. But I think experience has equally shown that it is the most difficult of all political labors to preserve and maintain such free constitutions of self-government when once happily established. I know no other way in which they can be preserved and maintained, except by a constant adherence to them through the various vicissitudes of national existence, with such adaptations as may become necessary, always to be effected, however, through the agencies and in the forms prescribed in the original constitutions themselves.

Whenever administration fails or seems to fail in securing any of the great ends for which republican government is established, the proper course seems to be to renew the original spirit and forms of the Constitution itself.

ANDREW JOHNSON.

WASHINGTON, March 2, 1867.

The Senate proceeded, as the Constitution provides, to reconsider the bill (S. 453) regulating the tenure of certain civil offices, returned by the President of the United States to the Senate with his objections; which bill is in the following words:

“THIRTY-NINTH CONGRESS OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA—AT THE “SECOND SESSION,

“BEGUN AND HELD IN THE CITY OF WASHINGTON, ON MONDAY, THE THIRD

“Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That every person holding any civil office to which he has been appointed by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, and every person who shall hereafter be appointed to any such office, and shall become duly qualified to act therein, is, and shall be, entitled to hold such office until a successor shall have been in like manner appointed and duly qualified, except as herein otherwise provided: Provided, That the Secretaries of State, of the Treasury, of War, of the Navy, and of the Interior, the Postmaster General, and the Attorney General, shall hold their offices, respectively, for and during the term of the President by whom they may have been appointed, and for one month thereafter, subject to removal by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

“SEC. 2. And be it further enacted, That when any officer appointed as aforesaid, excepting judges of the United States courts, shall, during a recess of the Senate, be shown, by evidence satisfactory to the President, to be guilty of misconduct in office, or crime, or for any reason shall become incapable or legally disqualified to perform its duties, in such case, and in no other, the President may suspend such officer and designate some suitable person to perform temporarily the duties of such office until the next meeting of the Senate and until the case shall be acted upon by the Senate; and such person so designated shall take the oaths and give the bonds required by law to be taken and given by the person duly appointed to fill such office; and in such case it shall be the duty of the President, within twenty days after the first day of such next meeting of the Senate, to report to the Senate such suspension, with the evidence and reasons for his action in the case and the name of the person so designated to perform the duties of such office. And if the Senate shall concur in such suspension and advise and consent to the removal of such officer, they shall so certify to the President, who may thereupon remove such officer, and, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, appoint another person to such office. But if the Senate shall refuse to concur in such suspension, such officer so suspended shall forthwith resume the functions of his office, and the powers of the person so performing its duties in his stead shall cease; and the official salary and emoluments of such officer shall, during such suspension, belong to the person so performing the duties thereof, and not to the officer so suspended: Provided, however, That the President, in case he shall become satisfied that such suspension was made on insufficient grounds, shall be authorized, at any time before reporting such suspension to the Senate as above provided, to revoke such suspension and reinstate such officer in the performance of the duties of his office.

“SEC. 3. And be it further enacted, That the President shall have power to fill all vacancies which may happen during the recess of the Senate by reason of death or resignation, by granting commissions which shall expire at the end of their next session thereafter. And if no appointment, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, shall be made to such office so vacant or temporarily filled as aforesaid, during such next session of the Senate, such office shall remain in abeyance, without any salary, fees, or emoluments attached thereto until the same shall be filled by appointment thereto, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate; and during such time all the powers and duties belonging to such office shall be exercised by such officer as may by law exercise such powers and duties in case of a vacancy in such office.

"SEC. 4. And be it further enacted, That nothing in this act contained shall be construed to extend the term of any office the duration of which is limited by law.

"SEC. 5. And be it further enacted, That if any person shall, contrary to the provisions of this act, accept any appointment to or employment in any office, or shall hold or exercise or attempt to hold or exercise any such office or employment, he shall be deemed, and is hereby declared to be, guilty of high misdemeanor, and, upon trial and conviction thereof, he shall be punished therefor by a fine not exceeding ten thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding five years, or both said punishments, in the discretion of the court.

* "SEC. 6. And be it further enacted, That every removal, appointment, or employment, made, had, or exercised, contrary to the provisions of this act, and the making, signing, sealing, countersigning, or issuing of any commission or letter of authority for or in respect to any such appointment or employment, shall be deemed, and are hereby declared to be, high misdemeanors, and, upon trial and conviction thereof, every person guilty thereof shall be punished by a fine not exceeding ten thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding five years, or both said punishments, in the discretion of the court: Provided, That the President shall have power to make out and deliver, after the adjournment of the Senate, commissions for all officers whose appointment shall have been advised and consented to by the Senate.

"SEC. 7. And be it further enacted, That it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Senate, at the close of each session thereof, to deliver to the Secretary of the Treasury, and to each of his Assistants, and to each of the Auditors, and to each of the Comptrollers in the Treasury, and to the Treasurer, and to the Register of the Treasury, a full and complete list, duly certified, of all persons who shall have been nominated to and rejected by the Senate during such session, and a like list of all the offices to which nominations shall have been made and not confirmed and filled at such session.

"SEC. 8. And be it further enacted, That whenever the President shall, without the advice and consent of the Senate, designate, authorize or employ any person to perform the duties of any office, he shall forthwith notify the Secretary of the Treasury thereof; and it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury thereupon to communicate such notice to all the proper accounting and disbursing officers of his department.

"SEC. 9. And be it further enacted, That no money shall be paid or received from the treasury, or paid or received from or retained out of any public moneys or funds of the United States, whether in the treasury or not, to or by or for the benefit of any person appointed to or authorized to act in or holding or exercising the duties or functions of any office contrary to the provisions of this act; nor shall any claim, account, voucher, order, certificate, warrant, or other instrument providing for or relating to such payment, receipt, or retention, be presented, passed, allowed, approved, certified, or paid by any officer of the United States, or by any person exercising the functions or performing the duties of any office or place of trust under the United States, for or in respect to such office, or the exercising or performing the functions or duties thereof. And every person who shall violate any of the provisions of this section shall be deemed guilty of a high misdemeanor, and, upon trial and conviction thereof, shall be punished therefor by a fine not exceeding ten thousand dollars, or by imprisonment not exceeding ten years, or both said punishments, in the discretion of the court.

"SCHUYLER COLFAX,

Those who voted in the affirmative are,

Messrs. Anthony, Cattell, Chandler, Conness, Cragin, Edmunds, Fessenden, Fogg, Foster, Fowler, Frelinghuysen, Grimes, Harris, Henderson, Howard, Kirkwood, Lane, Morgan, Morrill, Nye, Poland, Pomeroy, Ramsey, Ross, Sherman, Sprague, Stewart, Sumner, Trumbull, Van Winkle, Wade, Willey, Williams, Wilson, Yates.

Those who voted in the negative are,

Messrs. Buckalew, Cowan, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Hendricks, Johnson, Nesmith, Norton, Patterson, Saulsbury.

So it was

Resolved, That the bill do pass, two-thirds of the senators present voting in the affirmative.

On motion by Mr. Edmunds,

Ordered, That the Secretary communicate the bill "regulating the tenure of certain civil offices," with the message of the President returning the same to the Senate, with his objections, and the proceedings of the Senate, thereon, to the House of Representatives.

On motion by Mr. Edmunds,

Ordered, That the message of the President of the United States, returning the bill (S. 453) regulating the tenure of certain civil offices to the Senate with his objections, be printed.

Mr. Anthony, from the Committee on Printing, to whom was referred the resolution of the 13th of December last for the publication of a volume containing the colonial charters and the several State constitutions of each of the United States, reported it with amendments.

The Senate proceeded to consider the said resolution; and the amendments reported by the Committee on Printing having been agreed to, the resolution as amended was agreed to as follows:

Resolved, That the Committee on Printing cause to be prepared for publication a volume containing the colonial charters and the various State constitutions of each State of the United States, together with all amendments thereto, at any time in force, arranging the same in chronological order for each State, with suitable indexes, and that it be printed for the use of the Senate.

Mr. Anthony, from the Committee on Printing, to whom was referred the resolution of the 23d of February to print extra copies of the report of the select committee of the House of Representatives to investigate the murder of certain Union soldiers in the south, reported it without amendment.

The Senate proceeded to consider the said resolution; and

The resolution was agreed to.

Mr. Anthony, from the Committee on Printing, to whom was referred the letter of the Commissioner of Patents communicating his annual report for the year 1866, reported the following resolution, which was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to.

Resolved, That there be printed for the use of the Senate, four thousand copies of the annual report of the Commissioner of the Patent Office for the year 1866.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. McPherson, its Clerk:

Mr. President: The President of the United States having returned to the House of Representatives, in which it originated, the bill entitled "An act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States," with his objections thereto, the House proceeded, in conformity with the Constitution, to reconsider the said bill; and has,

Resolved, That it do pass—two-thirds of the House of Representatives agreeing to pass the same—the objections of the President to the contrary notwithstanding.

I am directed to communicate to the Senate the said bill with the objections of the President thereto, with the proceedings of the House of representatives thereon.

The House of Representatives has passed a joint resolution (H. R. 302) for the relief of soldiers who are entitled to artificial limbs, in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate; and

THOS. A. HENDRICKS,

Managers on the part of the Senate.

JUSTIN S. MORRILL,

J. K. MOORHEAD,

JOHN HOGAN,

Managers on the part of the House of Representatives.

The Senate proceeded to consider the report, and

On motion by Mr. Fessenden,

Resolved, That the Senate agree thereto.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

On motion by Mr. Wilson,

Ordered, That the Committee on Military Affairs and the Militia be discharged from the further consideration of the joint resolution (H. R. 302) for the relief of soldiers who are entitled to artificial limbs.

Mr. Nye reported from the committee that they had examined and found duly enrolled the following bills and joint resolution:

H. R. 793. An act to provide increased revenue from imported wool, and for other purposes.

H. R. 859. An act to declare valid and conclusive certain proclamations of the President, and acts done in pursuance thereof, or of his orders, in the suppression of the late rebellion against the United States.

H. R. 300. Joint resolution authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to audit and settle the accounts of John Sedgwick, collector of internal revenue for the third collection district of California.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. McPherson, its Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives has agreed to some and disagreed to other amendments of the Senate to the bill of the House (H. R. 1173) making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the government for the year ending June 30, 1868; and it has agreed to other amendments of the Senate to the said bill with amendments. It asks a conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses thereon, and has appointed Mr. Stevens, Mr. Van Aernam, and Mr. Niblack managers at the same on its part.

The House of Representatives has agreed to the amendment of the Senate to the amendment of the House to the bill of the Senate (S. 532) for the relief of the inhabitants of cities and towns upon the public lands.

The House of Representatives having proceeded, in conformity with the Constitution, to reconsider the bill entitled "An act regulating the tenure of certain civil offices," returned to the Senate by the President of the United States, with his objections, and sent by the Senate to the House of Representatives, with the message of the President returning the bill, has

Resolved, That the bill do pass—two-thirds of the House of Representatives agreeing to pass the same—the objections of the President to the contrary notwithstanding.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives having signed two enrolled bills (H. R. 793 and H. R. 859) and an enrolled joint resolution, (H. R. 300,) I am directed to bring them to the Senate for the signature of its President.

The Senate proceeded to consider its amendments to the bill of the House (H. R. 1173) making appropriations for sundry civil expenses of the government for the year ending June 30, 1868, disagreed to by the House, and the amendments of the House of Representatives to other amendments of the Senate to the said bill; and,

On motion by Mr. Sherman,

Resolved, That the Senate insist upon its amendments to the said bill, disagreed to by the House of Representatives, and disagree to the amendments of the House to other amendments of the Senate thereto, and that it agree to the conference asked by the House on the disagreeing votes of the two houses thereon.

Ordered, That the conferees on the part of the Senate be appointed by the President pro tempore; and

The President pro tempore appointed Mr. Sherman, Mr. Harris, and Mr. Nesmith.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

The President pro tempore signed the two enrolled bills (H. R. 793 and H. R. 859) and the enrolled joint resolution (H. R. 300) last reported to have been examined, and they were delivered to the committee to be presented to the President of the United States.

Mr. Williams submitted the following resolution; which was considered, by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Senate be directed to present to the Secretary of State the bill entitled "An act regulating the tenure of certain civil offices," together with the certificates of the Secretary of the Senate and the Clerk of the House of Representatives, showing that the said act was passed by a vote of two-thirds of both houses of Congress, after the same had been returned to the Senate by the President with his objections, and after the reconsideration of said act by both houses of Congress in accordance with the Constitution.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. McPherson, its Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives has agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the bill (H. R. 1220) to provide ways and means for the payment of compound-interest notes.

On motion by Mr. Williams,

The Senate proceeded to reconsider the bill entitled "An act to provide for the more efficient government of the rebel States," returned by the President of the United States to the House of Representatives, in which it originated, with his objections, and passed by the House of Representatives on a reconsideration of the same; and

The message of the President returning the bill to the House of Representatives, with his objections, having been read,

After debate,

On the question, Shall the bill pass, the objections of the President to the contrary notwithstanding?

It was determined in the affirmative, {	Yeas	38
	Nays	10

The yeas and nays being desired by one-fifth of the senators present,

Those who voted in the affirmative are,

Messrs. Anthony, Cattell, Chandler, Conness, Cragin, Creswell, Edmunds, Fessenden, Fogg, Foster, Fowler, Frelinghuysen, Grimes, Harris, Henderson, Howard, Howe, Johnson, Kirkwood, Lane, Morgan, Morrill, Nye, Poland, Pomeroy, Ramsey, Ross, Sherman, Sprague, Stewart, Sumner, Trumbull, Van Winkle, Wade, Willey, Williams, Wilson, Yates.

Those who voted in the negative are,

Messrs. Buckalew, Cowan, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Hendricks, Nesmith, Norton, Patterson, Saulsbury.

So it was

IRA HARRIS,

JNO. A. J. CRESWELL,

Managers on the part of the Senate.

WM. LAWRENCE,

F. E. WOODBRIDGE,

A. J. ROGERS,

Managers on the part of the House of Representatives.

The Senate proceeded to consider the report; and,

On motion by Mr. Hendricks,

Resolved, That the Senate agree thereto.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

On motion by Mr. Johnson,

The Senate proceeded to the consideration of executive business; and, after the consideration of executive business, the doors were opened; and

Mr. Stewart, from the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the bill of the House (H. R. 746) for the organization of land districts in the Territories of Arizona, Idaho, Utah, and Montana, submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the bill (H. R. 746) for the organization of land districts in the Territories of Arizona, Idaho, Utah, and Montana having met, after full and free conference, have agreed to recommend, and do recommend, to their respective houses as follows:

That the House agree to the Senate amendment to said bill, with the following amendments: Insert at the end of the word "for," in line 4 of the said amendment, the words each of the Territories of Utah and; insert at the end of the word "Montana," in line 2, second section of said amendment, the word Utah, and at the end of the word "district," in line 5 of the same section, the words the Utah district; and the title of said bill shall be amended as follows: "An act to create the office of surveyor general in the Territories of Utah and Montana, and establish a land office in the Territories of Utah, Montana, and Arizona."

WM. M. STEWART,

DAVID T. PATTERSON,

Managers on the part of the Senate.

GEORGE W. JULIAN,

SIDNEY T. HOLMES,

STEPHEN TABOR,

Managers on the part of the House of Representatives.

The Senate proceeded to consider the report; and,

On the question to agree thereto,

It was determined in the negative.

So it was

Resolved, That the Senate disagree to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the said bill.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

Mr. Trumbull, from the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the bill of the House (H. R. 896) making appropriations for the legislative, executive, and judicial expenses of the government for the year ending June 30, 1868, reported

That the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the said bill having met, after full and free conference, were unable to agree.

On motion by Mr. Trumbull,

Resolved, That the Senate recede from its 48th and 50th amendments to the said bill, disagreed to by the House of Representatives, and adhere to its 44th amendment to the said bill, disagreed to by the House.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

Mr. Wilson, from the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the bill of the House (H. R. 1126) making appropriations for the support of the army for the year ending June 30, 1868, and for other purposes, submitted the following report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the bill (H. R. 1126) making appropriations for the support of the army for the year ending June 30, 1868, and for other purposes, having met, after full and free conference, have agreed to recommend to their respective houses as follows:

That the House recede from their disagreement to the 1st amendment of the Senate, and agree to the same with the following amendment: Strike out the words "and fifty," in line 4, and add to the end of said amendment the following: Provided, That the ownership of said bridge shall be and remain in the United States, and the Rock Island and Pacific Railroad Company shall have the right of way over said bridge for all purposes of transit across the island and river upon the condition that the said company shall, before any money is expended by the government, agree to pay and shall secure to the United States, first, half the cost of said bridge, and second, half the expense of keeping said bridge in repair; and upon guaranteeing said conditions to the satisfaction of the Secretary of War, by contract or otherwise, the said company shall have free use of said bridge for purposes of transit, but without any claim to the ownership thereof.

That the Senate agree to the amendment of the House to the 6th amendment of the Senate, with an amendment, as follows: Strike out the words "the operations of," and that the House agree to the same.

That the House recede from their disagreement to the 7th amendment of the Senate and agree to the same.

That the Senate agree to the amendment of the House to the 8th amendment of the Senate.

That the House recede from their disagreement to the 10th amendment of the Senate and agree to the same.

And that the Senate recede from their 3d amendment to the bill.

H. S. LANE,

S. J. KIRKWOOD,

Managers on the part of the Senate.

THADDEUS STEVENS,

SAMUEL SHELLABARGER,

N. P. BANKS,

Managers on the part of the House of Representatives.

The Senate proceeded to consider the report; and,

On motion by Mr. Wilson,

Resolved, That the Senate agree thereto.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

On motion by Mr. Fessenden,

Ordered, That the Committee on Finance be discharged from the further consideration of the various bills, joint resolutions, memorials, and petitions heretofore referred to that committee, and not reported on.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. McPherson, its Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives has agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the bill of the House (H. R. 604) to define and punish certain crimes therein named; and

It has agreed to the report of the committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the bill of the House (H. R. 1161) to amend existing laws relating to internal revenue.

The House of Representatives further insists upon its disagreement to the 44th amendment of the Senate to the bill of the House (H. R. 896) making appropriations for the legislative, executive, and judicial expenses of the government for the year ending June 30, 1868, adhered to by the Senate. It asks a further conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses thereon, and has appointed Mr. Le Blond, Mr. Pomeroy, and Mr. Allison managers at the same on its part.

The House of Representatives has passed a bill (H. R. 1227) making appropriations and to supply deficiencies in the appropriations for the service of the government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1867, and for other purposes, in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate.

The Speaker of the House of Representatives having signed ten enrolled bills (S. 532, H. R. 346, H. R. 710, H. R. 825, H. R. 966, H. R. 1039, H. R. 1059, H. R. 1126, H. R. 1168, H. R. 1220) and three enrolled joint resolutions, (H. R. 174, H. R. 254, and H. R. 282,) I am directed to bring them to the Senate for the signature of its President.

On motion by Mr. Fessenden,

The Senate proceeded to consider its 44th amendment to the bill of the House (H. R. 896) making appropriations for the legislative, executive, and judicial expenses of the government for the year ending June 30, 1868, disagreed to by the House of Representatives and adhered to by the Senate; and,

On motion by Mr. Fessenden,

Resolved, That the Senate recede from its adherence to its 44th amendment to the said bill and further insist upon its said amendment; and that it agree to the further conference asked by the House of Representatives on the disagreeing votes of the two houses thereon.

Ordered, That the conferees on the part of the Senate be appointed by the President pro tempore; and

The President pro tempore appointed Mr. Edmunds, Mr. Conness, and Mr. Buckalew.

On motion by Mr. Wilson,

The Senate proceeded to consider, as in Committee of the Whole, the bill (H. R. 1137) for the relief of Oliver Lumphrey; and no amendment being made, it was reported to the Senate.

Ordered, That it pass to a third reading.

The said bill was read the third time.

Resolved, That it pass.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

Mr. Howe reported from the committee that they this day presented to the President of the United States the following enrolled bills:

S. 460. An act in relation to persons imprisoned under sentence for offences against the laws of the United States.

S. 547. An act to amend an act entitled "An act to extend the time for the reversion to the United States of the lands granted by Congress to aid in the construction of a railroad from Amboy, by Hillsdale and Lausling, to a point on or near Traverse bay, in the State of Michigan, and for the completion of said road," approved July 3, 1866.

Mr. Howe reported from the committee that they had examined and found duly enrolled the following bills and joint resolutions:

The bill having been further amended on the motions of Messrs. Fessenden, Williams, Poland, Harris, and Trumbull, it was reported to the Senate and the amendments were concurred in.

Ordered, That the amendments be engrossed and the bill read a third time.

The said bill as amended was read the third time.

Resolved, That it pass.

Ordered, That the Secretary request the concurrence of the House of Representatives in the amendments.

A message from the House of Representatives, by Mr. McPherson, its Clerk:

Mr. President: The House of Representatives has agreed to some and disagreed to other amendments of the Senate to the bill of the House (H. R. 1176) making appropriations for the naval service for the year ending June 30, 1868, and it has agreed to the sixth amendment of the Senate with an amendment. It asks a conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses thereon, and has appointed Mr. Kasson, Mr. Banks, and Mr. Pike, managers at the same on its part.

The House of Representatives has disagreed to the amendments of the Senate to the joint resolution of the House (H. R. 226) extending the provisions of section two of an act entitled "An act to extend the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims, and to provide for the payment of certain demands for quartermasters' stores and subsistence supplies furnished to the army of the United States," approved July 4, 1864. It asks a conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses thereon, and has appointed Mr. Schenck, Mr. Hill, and Mr. Kuykendall managers at the same on its part; and

It has passed a joint resolution (H. R. 303) to enable the Secretary of War to carry out an agreement in relation to a water-power for the arsenal at Rock island, in which it requests the concurrence of the Senate.

On motion by Mr. Hendricks,

The Senate proceeded to consider its amendments to the bill (H. R. 1176) making appropriations for the naval service for the year ending June 30, 1868, disagreed to by the House of Representatives, and the amendment of the House to the sixth amendment of the Senate; and,

On motion by Mr. Fessenden,

Resolved, That the Senate insist upon its amendments to said bill disagreed to by the House of Representatives, and disagree to the amendment of the House to the sixth amendment of the Senate thereto; and that it agree to the conference asked by the House on the disagreeing votes of the two houses thereon.

Ordered, That the conferees on the part of the Senate be appointed by the President pro tempore; and

The President pro tempore appointed Mr. Hendricks, Mr. Sprague, and Mr. Willey.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

On motion by Mr. Pomeroy,

The Senate proceeded to consider its amendments to the joint resolution of the House (H. R. 226) extending the provisions of section two of an act entitled "An act to extend the jurisdiction of the Court of Claims, and to provide for the payment of certain demands for quartermaster's stores and subsistence supplies furnished to the army of the United States," approved July 4, 1864; disagreed to by the House of Representatives; and,

On motion by Mr. Pomeroy,

Resolved, That the Senate insist upon its amendments to the said resolution disagreed to by the House of Representatives, and agree to the conference asked by the House on the disagreeing votes of the two houses thereon.

Ordered, That the conferees on the part of the Senate be appointed by the President pro tempore; and

The President pro tempore appointed Mr. Pomeroy, Mr. Trumbull, and Mr. Harris.

Ordered, That the Secretary notify the House of Representatives thereof.

The Hon. La Fayette S. Foster, President of the Senate pro tempore, rose and addressed the Senate as follows:

SENATORS: The hour for the final adjournment of the thirty-ninth Congress is near at hand, and as my official connection with this body will then terminate I shall now vacate the chair, to the end that you may elect a President of the Senate.

Twelve years have elapsed since I was first honored with a seat in this chamber. During this period great events—events of the most intense and painful interest to our country; events as imposing in their character, as instructive in their teachings, as momentous in their consequences as any recorded in human history—have passed before us in rapid succession. Surely we have great reason for gratitude and thanksgiving to Almighty God that hitherto His hand has upheld us.

For the last two years, by your favor, I have occupied the chair of the Senate. My grateful acknowledgments are due to you for the uniform courtesy and forbearance which you have manifested towards me in the performance of such duties as have been devolved upon me. Occasional errors and mistakes, in the imperfection of our nature, are probably inevitable; no doubt I have committed my full share. My honest purpose has been to act fairly and impartially towards all. I have wronged no one intentionally, and if at any time it has seemed otherwise, I sincerely regret it.

In casting my eyes over the body I recognize but four members who were here when I first entered the Senate. Since that time eighteen of our number have been removed by death. These changes are admonitory, and must impress the mind with a sense of the fleeting and transitory character of this stage in our being.

Though the greatest statesmen, the wisest senators, speedily pass away, as all men must, institutions founded on principles of right and truth and justice may remain till time shall be no longer. May our government rest on these sure foundations! May the Senate ever maintain its early renown for courtesy, decorum, dignity, and all the proprieties and amenities which adorn the senatorial character! May you be called to do much to establish, and may you see established, harmonious and amicable relations between all portions of our country! May all causes of alienation and estrangement be speedily and effectually removed, and a spirit of concord and fraternal love be everywhere diffused, and ever abide in the hearts of all our people! May God preserve our republic and make it a perpetual glory among the nations!

Senators, with feelings of the utmost respect and kindness towards you personally, I bid you farewell.

Mr. Foster, at the conclusion of his remarks, having retired, the Secretary of the Senate assumed the duties of the Chair.

Mr. Anthony submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent and agreed to:

Resolved, That the honorable Benjamin F. Wade, of the State of Ohio, be, and he is hereby, chosen President of the Senate pro tempore.

Whereupon

Mr. Wade was conducted to the chair by Mr. Anthony and Mr. Foster.

On motion by Mr. Anthony,

Ordered, That the Secretary wait upon the President of the United States and inform him that the Senate has chosen the honorable Benjamin F. Wade, one of the senators from the State of Ohio, President of the Senate pro tempore.

On motion by Mr. Anthony,

Ordered, That the Secretary inform the House of Representatives that the Senate has chosen the honorable Benjamin F. Wade, one of the senators from the State of Ohio, President of the Senate pro tempore.

Mr. Anthony submitted the following resolution; which was considered by unanimous consent and unanimously agreed to:

Resolved, That the thanks of the Senate are due, and they are hereby tendered, to the honorable La Fayette S. Foster, President of the Senate pro tempore, for the able, dignified, and impartial manner in which he has discharged the responsible duties of the Chair.

Ordered, That the Secretary communicate a copy of this resolution to the honorable La Fayette S. Foster.
